ALAMEDA, Cal., April 23.—(UP)—Pan-American Airways' huge Clipper plane flashed into its home base today, completing the first round-trip commercial flight to Honolulu and opening the way to 'round-the-world' air service.

The great four-motored amphibian, winging through bright sunshine, swooped to a landing at 5:58 p. m., eastern standard time, 20 hours, 50 minutes after taking off from Pearl Harbor.

Ten thousand spectators cheered as the 19-ton craft silted through the waters of San Francisco bay, a broad wave of foaming white marking its path as it came to rest alongside a float anchored off the landing base.

Thus the Clipper's flight spread wings of America's commercial air fleet another 2,400 miles westward, with promise that soon they will reach China along Pan-American's 8,500-mile route. Bases now are being established at Midway, Wake, Guam and Manila for the service, which will connect with established air schedules to Hongkong and Canton.

By mid-July, these bases will be finished. By next fall travelers may be able to fly 'round the world'.

Across the United States, by Pan-American to China, then north and west over Manchukuo and Siberia to Europe, then across the Atlantic to South America, and north by established services and back to the United States will be the available globe circling route.

Headwinds Encountered.

The homing flight of the great plane, in contrast to the westward trip, was made against headwinds that offered a dragging challenge to the Clipper, which smashed all records in its outward bound hop.

Between 9 o'clock Thursday night, approximately three hours after its take-off at 5:30 p. m., Pacific standard time, and 11 a. m. Wednesday, Pacific standard time, the flying boat failed to pick up a single tail wind, flying at an average of 7,000 feet much of

Bridegroom Vanishes 3 Hours Before Wedding

WORCESTER, Mass., April 23.—(AP)—Worcester detectives worked today on the mystery of the vanished bridegroom.

Wilfred I. Howell, casket company official, disappeared yesterday three hours before he was to marry pretty Yolande P. Tharvest, Dr. Cecil McLaughlin, his physician, said he was probably the victim of amnesia, caused by overwork in preparation for his absence on his honeymoon.

Howell had with him when he disappeared his unused marriage license and about $400, just withdrawn from his bank for his Bermuda honeymoon.

WALKER TO HEAD 'CLEARING HOUSE' FOR RELIEF FUND

Former Head of Emergency Council Named by Roosevelt To Handle Fund Applications.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP)—In an initial step toward the creation of his $4,000,000 work-relief spending machine, President Roosevelt today appointed Frank C. Walker, of New York, former head of the National Emergency Council, as chief of a division of applications for the fund.

The drawing of Walker back into the government's service had not been widely forecast. A close friend and confidant of the president, Walker had been sought for other government posts since his retirement as chief of the Emergency Council, but had declined.

His return means that he will once more head the council, and that this agency as a whole will serve as sort of a clearing house for plans for spending the big work relief fund.

The White House announcement said it would serve "with the general objective of providing for the public and for officials of the federal, state and local governmental agencies, as well as for civic organizations, a central place for their general convenience."

The president said Donald R. Richberg, who has been serving as head of the Emergency Council, will be relieved to devote his entire time to the national recovery administration.

Walker will assume his duties tomorrow.

The Emergency Council includes the heads of all government departments and agencies, most of which will have a part in the huge work undertaking.

The president's announcement, however, uncovered only a comparatively small part of his plans. He intends to create a board for the ac-

PASSAGE OF BONUS WILL HKE TAXES, MORGENTHAU SAYS

Treasury Chief Before Senate Group Warns of Increase in Inheritance Levy to Pay Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP)—An unexpected warning that hundreds of millions in new inheritance taxes may be demanded by the administration to finance cash bonus legislation today was raised as a barrier to veteran demands—clouding even the future of the Harrison bond-redemption compromise.

Secretary Morgenthau, President Roosevelt's closest financial confidant, personally delivered the new taxes bombshell to the senate finance committee, blanketing into his statement all bonus bills under consideration.

"The treasury," Morgenthau said, "would view with great concern the enactment of any bill which calls for large expenditures without compensating additional taxes."

Immediately, however, Chairman Harrison renewed to newsmen his contention that the compromise plan, with its offer to exchange negotiable bonds for the bonus certificates, would not require new taxes.

And despite the apparent conflict, informed democratic senators still insisted the Harrison bill represented a compromise. President Roosevelt would sign, if it was submitted to him by congress. Further, some of them felt that if it was passed, the new tax proposal might not be pushed very seriously.

Veteran leaders, for their part, continued in testimony to ignore the Harrison compromise, and to stand for the cash bonus. "We are not going to sign," said Senator George W. Norris, republican, Michigan, announced he would vote against both of them.

Morgenthau, testifying before almost the complete membership of the finance committee and a packed committee room, read a prepared statement asserting that all bills before the committee proposed additional expenditures. He declared that the credit of the government "depends very largely, in my opinion, upon the scrupulous adherence to the president's program."

"A material decline in the market price of government securities," he said, "would be very likely to result from large expenditures outside the budget, would work a grave injustice upon all purchasers of government securities, and would tend to slow up the whole recovery program."

Next came the warning that more taxes must accompany extra-budget outlays, and then the full treasury board had finished the couple of minutes needed to read his prepared statement. Harrison thanked Morgenthau and South to dismiss him from the stand, but a series of questions started.

Senator La Follette, progressive, Wisconsin, asked if the treasury had considered a revenue-raising program.

Plans Studied.

"Yes," Morgenthau replied, "we discussed various plans in case congress did vote a bonus. We feel a method that is absolutely not inflation would be a federal inheritance tax on the same basis as the income tax."

Subsequently Morgenthau estimated such a tax would raise from $200,000,000 to $800,000,000 a year. He

'Political Hoodlums' Rapped By Weltner in Talk at Tech

Though he does not believe "our civilization is tumbling as did the Tower of Babel," Chancellor Philip Weltner, of the University System of Georgia, addressing students at the honor day exercises at Georgia Tech yesterday, warned them to "distrust the totalitarian state as exemplified by Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin."

He made vigorous thrusts at "political hoodlums" who have captured the public imagination, and said, "I hope to see soon the defeat in our own country of such men as Huey Long and other political hoodlums."

Chancellor Weltner and other speakers made their remarks from a reproduction of a bridge of a battleship, and the honor students marched across a floor as white as any battleship in the Georgia Tech naval armory to receive their certificates of special merit.

Reviews World Progress.

The youths drank in every remark which Chancellor Weltner made as he reviewed the economic progress of the world, pausing at significant periods to dwell upon pertinent developments and incidents comparable to present-day events.

Chancellor Weltner scouted current objection that the country has been short of its individualism through government direction. "While I do not believe individualism is enough for the future citizen, I do not believe that individualism has been destroyed. It will continue," he said.

Protective tariffs, he said, favor northern industry and discriminate against the south as 70 per cent of southern agriculturalists are tenants, without land.

"We cannot lose faith in the future when America is being tested. But the machine age must be subjected to the needs of mankind."

Of the 250 students presented awards for scholastic achievements, F. A. L. Holloway, of Atlanta, senior chemical engineering, was outstanding, receiving the senior scholarship cup, senior engineering cup, and membership in the Phi Kappa Phi.

NEW ENGLAND HIT BY SHARP 'QUAKE'; NO PERSONS HURT

Shock Centers of Provincetown and Alarms Section; Persia Reports 483 Dead in Temblors.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., April 23.—(AP)—A terrific shock rocked this Cape Cod tip tonight, shaking houses and rattling dishes.

The shock was felt shortly after 8:30 p. m. and caused an immediate deluge of calls to the local telephone exchange by excited townspeople.

R. J. Davey, on watch in the Race Point lookout station of the coast guard, two miles from the center of town, said his 35-foot tower "shook like a leaf."

"I thought sure we were going over," he said, "and I opened up the hatch to go down. It sounded like thunder and lasted for nearly a minute. It was a loud rumble."

The quake also was felt in Gloucester, on the north shore of Massachusetts.

Buildings swayed in the few seconds' duration of the quake.

Dr. L. D. Lee, director of the Harvard seismograph, reported that in the past year 65 other earthquakes of similar intensity had been recorded on his apparatus, but because they occurred in less populated areas or at sea, only three of them had been reported to him.

Dr. Lee said the quake had "possibly occurred off the coast under the ocean," although he said he could not definitely state this.

His apparatus showed that the quake was a surface quake, a distance of 17 1/2 miles from the observatory.

At Gloucester, police reported that while the quake was slight, there was much apprehension among residents of the city.

483 ARE KILLED IN PERSIA 'QUAKE'

TEHRAN, Iran, April 23.—(AP)—A series of earth shocks rocking northern Iran (Persia) since April 22 still continued tonight, after killing an undetermined number of persons and doing unestimated damage.

Reports from Masanderan province said 483 persons died in that division alone. Lack of communications facilities prevented any accurate survey of the devastated regions.

Dispatches from Teheran published in Paris said 600 persons were reported killed and thousands injured in the quakes, which destroyed the towns of Dehdagheh, Tehdangheh and Lezard-Jarib and caused widespread panic.

The Paris advices said the quakes, continuing, were impeding rescue efforts, rocking buildings to pieces as rescuers penetrated them in search of victims.

The Iraq press reported the heaviest damage was done at Suleid, where many buildings were destroyed and most of the populace left homeless.

Quakes felt there were both violent and of exceptionally long duration, these reports said.

Tremors were felt at Amul, Babul and Khor. A textile plant at Zibah was destroyed.

The undersecretary of domestic affairs left Teheran to take charge of relief activities in the stricken area.

Slayer of Two Children Begs for Death in Cell

CHICAGO, April 23.—(UP)—William Gardner, 56, bank teller who killed two of his children and wounded a third, lay on a jail hospital cot today, begging for death.

Gardner, maddened by dread of family insanity, murdered his pretty daughter, Rita Jane, 20; his son, Donald, 14, and wounded another son, Kenneth, 17. The mother, Mrs. Elsie Gardner, is an invalid.

"I wish they would hang me," Gardner said weakly. "I am not a quitter but I certainly don't want to live. My family never will want to see me again. This will kill my wife."

TALMADGE ATTACK ON F. D. R. POLICIES FLAYED, PRAISED

Varied Comment Heard as Governor Maps Trip. Rep. Vinson Says State Will Not Be Penalized.

Widespread attention all over the country has been given Governor Talmadge's statements criticizing President Roosevelt and the national administration, it was revealed yesterday when comment on the statements reached Atlanta from widely scattered areas. Nearly 90 per cent of the several hundred letters and telegrams received commended his stand, it was said.

The comments, from 30 odd states, were made public as the governor neared completion of his itinerary, for his stamp tour of the cotton area in which he will make a number of speeches against the cotton processing tax and other policies of the Roosevelt administration. The governor is expected to give full details of the tour in a few days.

Prominent among those commenting upon the governor's statements were Congressman E. H. Coker of Columbia; John J. Egan, of Hartford, Conn., state secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Labor, who asked the governor to withdraw his invitation to Governor Talmadge to speak at the annual convention of the New London, Conn., ten-centenary celebration May 20 to withdraw his invitation to Governor Talmadge to speak at the annual convention of the New London, Conn., and Mayor Key, of Atlanta.

In addition to the New London speech, the governor has arranged a number of other engagements in the north, including an address in New York on May 19 and a speech before the Chicago Association of Commerce on June 12.

Full Share Seen.

Despite the sharp cleavage between Governor Talmadge and the national administration, Representative Vinson, democrat, Georgia, said yesterday in Washington that Georgia will participate fully in the new $4,880,000,000 work-relief program.

But with the view to making assurance doubly sure, he invited other Georgia house members to caucus and work out a plan for qualifying large numbers of work projects in the state.

Meanwhile, unofficial observers continued to speculate that Philip Weltner, resigned head of Georgia university system, will head the work-relief administrative body for the Cracker state, and Will Vereen, manufacturer of Mount Vernon, may serve on a board with Weltner.

But, hitherto, all sources agreed no authoritative prediction can be made until word comes from the White House on the national administrative set-up.

State Not To Be Penalized.

Vinson, dean of the Georgia house group, said the crusade Talmadge has launched against the Roosevelt "New Deal" will in no wise penalize the state in the recovery drive. He said the state delegation will exert every effort to assure Georgia all possible relief.

MAN 'PUT ON SPOT' AS HE SITS IN CAR IN FRONT OF HOME

Assailant Steps Onto Running Board of Auto Occupied by Victim and Wife, Fires Two Shots and Vanishes.

GUYOL CONVICTED IN LOTTERY CASES

Underworld Leader's Career Marked by Frequent Brushes With the Law, Both State and Federal.

Stark, sudden death last night shattered the momentary calm of Atlanta's gangland warfare as an unidentified assailant shot and almost instantly killed Eddie Guyol, convicted lottery operator and dealer in illicit liquor, in the driveway of his beautiful Pelham road home.

Guyol and his wife had just stepped into their automobile preparatory to going out for the evening when a short, slight white man emerged from the shadows, and according to Mrs. Guyol, stepped on the running board of the automobile, pistol in hand.

"Eddie," she quoted the man as saying, "You've got it coming to you."

Two shots in rapid succession tore through the silence of the fashionable Morningstar section and Guyol slumped forward with a powder-burned bullet wound in his right cheek, the bullet ranging upward and coming out of his forehead. The assailant jumped from the running board and disappeared into the deep shadows.

Call for Ambulance.

At Grady hospital an excited voice came over a radio telephone. "Send an ambulance quick to Rock Springs road. A man's been shot."

A click of the receiver responded to the telephone operator's query for a definite address.

At police headquarters a lawyer said: "I heard Eddie Guyol had been put on the spot." He knew nothing beyond that.

Radio Patrolman Eugene Head was sent to the home. Guyol had been rushed to a private hospital by Walter Catlett, who also has been convicted on liquor charges and has been indicted on lottery charges.

Guyol was dead on arrival at the hospital and request of Coroner Paul Donehoo to remove the body to the funeral home of H. M. Patterson & Son was granted. Cutoff appeared at the funeral home shortly after the body arrived and announced that funeral arrangements would be arranged today.

Many Brushes With Law.

Guyol's trail during the last several years has been marked with frequent brushes with the law, both state and federal.

He was considered one of the "kings" of the lottery and bootlegging business in both Fulton and DeKalb counties.

Three Men Convicted In Ila Bank Robbery

DANIELSVILLE, Ga., April 23.—Three men, Frank Miller, George Brunson and George Gray, today were convicted on the charge of robbing the bank of Ila, near here, last February 4, and were sentenced to serve five years each in the penitentiary.

Judge W. W. Stark, of Commerce, presided for Judge Berry T. Mosley, who was disqualified. Solicitor Skekelton was assisted in the prosecution by Solicitor General Sumner of the Stone Mountain circuit and by Judge Gordon, of the Danielsville city court.

The bank lost from $1,500 to $1,800 in the robbery, and stocks, bonds and notes and other property which witnesses testified were found in possession of the men when they were caught following a gun battle at Snapping Creek in DeKalb county in February, were identified as property of the Ila bank.

Gray and Brunson have been convicted in DeKalb county on a charge of possessing burglar's tools and a trial of Miller is pending there. The men will be returned to DeKalb county and their sentences here will await the outcome of their appeals in DeKalb county, officers stated.

AUTO EMPLOYEES W. L. RANDALL DIES STRIKE IN TOLEDO OF SUDDEN ATTACK

By the Associated Press.

A walkout of Chevrolet Motor Company employees closed the Toledo plant yesterday and put a fresh blot on the map already dotted with industrial strikes.

Members of the United Automobile Workers' Federal Union quit the factory after the company refused a demand for a closed shop, despite concessions of a 5 per cent wage increase and seniority recognition.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said there was "grave danger" of contagion in the strike, which he felt might spread to other automobile companies. The Toledo closing put 2,340 men out of work.

At Birmingham, Ala., police riot squads were summoned to scatter hundreds of laundry workers and sympathizers in their two-week-old strike. Tear gas bombs were used to disperse demonstrators at three large laundry plants. A closed shop and more pay is their demand.

While Omaha walked or motored through the fourth day of a street car strike, the company promised to start the cars as soon as the mayor provided adequate protection, and his honor said the police were ready. All was quiet, including the trolleys.

St. Louis police nabbed a striking employee of the Laclede Gas Light Company and seized a quantity of dynamite, preventing an attempt to

Texan Is Accused In Slaying of Wife

GREENVILLE, Texas, April 23.—(AP)—Officers scoffed today at S. P. Darden's story that his wife was killed by a sleep-walking son and filed murder charges against the husband as he wept beside her grave.

Deputy Sheriffs hastened to arrest Darden, a Cadillac Mills filling station operator, at Clinton, after the funeral services for the attractive 32-year-old woman.

"It will be hard for Jackie Glenn to live it down," Darden said in clinging to his story that the eight-year-old boy killed his mother with a shot gun while he stood at the bedside, asleep.

"It would be a physical impossibility for the child to even pull the trigger of the gun," Henry Pharr, state prosecutor, insisted.

"I can't remember," was all sad-eyed little Jackie Glenn could say.

TRAFFIC MISHAPS CLAIM TWO LIVES

C. A. Mullins Dies of Burns; G. A. Clayton III Killed by Father's Auto.

Traffic accidents claimed two lives in Greater Atlanta yesterday.

Injured Monday when his motorcycle crashed into a telephone pole in Bolton, Superintending Patrolman C. A. Mullins, 24, died early yesterday at a hospital.

Two-year-old George Alexander Clayton III was run over and killed yesterday morning. He was struck by the car his father, Marcus M. Clayton, was backing out of the driveway at the Clayton home at 2218 Woodland avenue, in Peachtree Hills.

Clayton, who is an executive of the George A. Clayton Company and the Modern Building Insulating Company, with offices in the Bona-Alton building, was prostrated with grief. He could not see his small son standing behind his car and he backed the car into the child. He put the boy in the automobile and rushed him to a hospital but death had been almost instantaneous.

Patrolman Mullins died at 2:20 o'clock yesterday morning at Grady hospital. He was burned when his motorcycle, on which he was practicing riding, caught fire at 2218 Woodland avenue, in Peachtree Hills.

He had averted to avoid being struck by an automobile which was passing another machine. The superintending policeman could not extricate himself from the wreckage because his leg was broken, and his body was burned before aid could reach him. He was appointed to the police force last year.

Funeral services for Mr. Mullins will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Bellwood Baptist church, where he had often sung as a member of the choir. The Rev. W. S. Pruitt, the Rev. W. N. Pruitt and the Rev. D. W. Regan will officiate and interment will be in Crown Hill cemetery with policemen acting as pallbearers and honorary escorts. The West Side Funeral Home is in charge.

He is survived by his wife; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mullins and two sisters, Mrs. M. Cochran and Miss Nellie Mullins, of Atlanta. The Clayton child was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus M. Clayton, and is survived also by a brother, Marcus M. Clayton Jr., aged 4, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Dann, of New Orleans.

Services will be conducted by the Rev. John Moore Walker at 11 o'clock this morning at St. Luke's Episcopal church and burial will be in West View cemetery. H. M. Patterson & Son are in charge.

HARRINGTON AND KEY HEAD WELFARE BOARD

W. Eugene Harrington was named chairman and Maynard L. Key vice chairman of the Fulton County Welfare Board at an organization meeting held yesterday.

Hugh C. Couch, Southern Railway executive, was named secretary and treasurer; Frank Miller, head of the Community Chest, was elected executive director, and Ralph Pharr, county attorney, was named as counsel. Chairmen of standing committees were named as follows: Personnel and organization, Hugh C. Couch; finance and purchase, W. E. Mitchell; welfare program and Community Chest, Frank Neely; county institutions, Dr. C. R. Adams; work relief projects, Edwin F. Johnson.

There was no discussion of the elimination from the board of George F. Longino, who served as a representative of the commission in the informal organization of the board before it was legalized by the legislature. Longino was eliminated by the commission last week when the board was formally set up and Johnson and Dr. Adams were named.

Harrington said the board's program provides for an immediate and thorough survey of all charitable and relief organizations in the county with a view to elimination of any duplication by which money can be saved to the taxpayers.

The board voted to hold meetings once a month in the county commission chambers at the courthouse.

Elsas Charges 'Reds' Were Active in Strike

Evidence that the communist party maintained headquarters in Atlanta during the textile strike last September was introduced by Norman Elsas, vice president of the Fulton Bag & Cotton Mill, at a hearing before Charles Bergman, examiner for the textile labor relations board yesterday in the federal building.

Testifying that he caused the Fulton mill to be closed during the strike because he feared violence as a result of agitation by communists, Mr. Elsas introduced in evidence handbills distributed by the reds and issued by the Atlanta section of the communist party of America.

The hearing before Examiner Bergman was to determine whether the Fulton mill should be compelled to re-instate 168 employees who were not returned to duty when the mill reopened following the strike.

Under questioning by O. E. Petry, secretary-treasurer of the Georgia Federation of Labor, who conducted labor's side of the hearing, Mr. Elsas said that of the 168 men who signed a petition claiming discrimination because of their union affiliations, 50 were back on the mill pay roll. He denied that the fact the men were members of a labor union had anything to do with their failure to regain their jobs.

Examiner Bergman will take a transcript of the testimony to Washington to present it before the textile board, which will render a decision in the case.

JEWELRY STOLEN HERE FOUND IN FOUR CITIES

Co-operating with Atlanta authorities, detectives in Chicago, Indianapolis, Lexington, Ky., and Cincinnati and other midwestern cities have recovered more than $2,000 worth of the fraternity jewelry which was taken in the burglary of the Muse store here several weeks ago, it was stated yesterday.

The detectives who recovered the bulk of the loot informed Atlanta officers that some of the jewelry had been melted and sold to dealers in old gold. Atlanta detectives already had recovered approximately the same amount of the jewelry and clothing valued at $1,000. There still remains unrecovered more than $2,000 of the clothing and jewelry taken from the store in the burglary for which three men are being held by Atlanta police, it was stated.

Professor at University of Virginia To Be Awarded Herty Gold Medal

Dr. Francis Perry Dunnington, of Charlottesville, Va., for 48 years professor of chemistry at the University of Virginia and a prolific contributor to scientific literature, has been named to receive the Charles Herty gold medal this year.

The medal is awarded annually by the Georgia section of the American Chemical Society in recognition of outstanding contribution to chemistry in the southeast. Dr. Sam J. Guy, professor of chemistry at Emory University and chairman of the awarding committee, announced selection of Dr. Dunnington for the honor yesterday.

Three other prominent southern chemists were cited by the Herty award committee for outstanding work. They were:

Dr. Lyndon Frederick Small, of the University of Virginia, for his progress in the field of organic chemistry, and his achievements and research, pointing out he has published some 68 chemical papers and essays.

One of his greatest works was described as the demonstration of the practically universal occurrence of titanium in American rocks and soils. The presentation of the medal will be made May 15 in Milledgeville at a meeting of the Georgia section of the American Chemical Society. The medal only has been awarded to one other man—Dr. Fred Allison, of Auburn, for his discovery of chemical element No. 87.

Dr. Dunnington was born in Baltimore on March 3, 1851, and was educated at the University of Virginia. He has been a member of the American Chemical Society since 1880.

He found native white Americans much more likely to react to their emotions than Chinese or Japanese. Emotions were tested by having a large, heavy hammer strike a way within a few inches of the hand of men of each racial type.

The Americans, generally speaking, had much less control over themselves when the hammer struck. They exhibited keen tendency to jerk their hands away, their blood pressure rose, simple tasks, and then parts of the frontal lobes of their brains were removed surgically.

When the brains had healed, the apes not only could not remember the simple tasks they had learned, but could not learn to do them again. They had lost the type of memory needed to reproduce a situation.

On the other hand they had not forgotten other things learned long before, and of a different type, such as finding their way through mazes. In another report, the old idea of the impulsive, unemotional oriental was upheld by experiments described by Dr. G. M. Stratton, of the University of California.

FATHER OF ATLANTAN PASSES IN RALEIGH

Julius Schwartz, father of W. B. Schwartz, of Atlanta, died yesterday morning at his home in Raleigh, N. C., of a heart attack. He was 70.

The Atlanta man, who is connected with Dittler Brothers, left last night for Raleigh to attend his father's funeral Thursday. Mr. Schwartz is also survived by his wife; two other sons, and two daughters. His son here resides at 1725 Cornell road.

GEORGIA LEADING CORN LIQUOR STATE

Manufacture, Sale Highly Organized, Tax Unit Investigator Says.

By W. A. RITCHIE.

The manufacture and sale of corn liquor in Georgia is conducted as a highly organized industry, similar, in many respects, to the combines of Volstead days, according to W. K. Johnston, investigator in charge of the alcohol tax unit in this state.

As proof of the fact that the corn liquor industry is organized, Mr. Johnston cited the fact that seldom do either the moonshiners, who distill the liquor, or the bootleggers, who distribute it, languish in jail awaiting trial when arrested.

"From all indications, I would say that the corn liquor industry in Georgia is well organized," the alcohol tax unit chief declared. "Seldom does a person accused of violating the tax act remain in jail while awaiting trial. Almost always he obtains his release on bond. Furthermore, they are nearly all represented by an attorney when they appear for trial."

In prohibition days, the liquor rings were organized in such a way that even the lowliest bootlegger was assured of his freedom on bond and an attorney at his trial in the event he ran afoul of the law.

Many "rings" operating. This is likewise the case in Georgia at present. There are a number of rings operating in the state, some large and some small. These rings protect not only the bootleggers who sell the whisky, but also the moonshiners who manufacture it in their hidden stills. One of Atlanta's large

Alabama Starts First 150 Families To Farms Ultimately To Be Theirs

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 23.—(AP)—Some 150 young married men between 18 and 30 and with an average of two children each, today had begun reclaiming government-owned farms in Coffee county preparatory to the "moving-in" of approximately 500 relief workers as subsistence homesteaders.

Each young married man on relief described as the "Forgotten Men of the New Deal"—some day will own one of the farms they are preparing for homesteaders if the plans of the Alabama Relief Administration work out.

After six months, if they are found worthy, they will be assigned to homesteads to be paid for in small amounts over a period of about 15 years at low interest rates.

Thad Holt, state relief director, today described the encampments in Coffee county as "Alabama CCC camps,"

Vinson called the group to meet with him as soon as the president completes administrative machinery for the new program.

on his way from Washington to his home city to issue a statement attacking the governor for his criticism of the Roosevelt administration and to defend the president's farm program with the statement that Roosevelt has done more for the farmers in the last two years than has ever been done for them in American history.

Mayor James L. Key and a number of other leaders of Georgia cities had caustic comment to make concerning the governor's recent remarks.

Statement of Cox

The statement of Congressman Cox follows:

"If Governor Talmadge has been correctly reported by the press as planning to start a campaign against the administration agricultural program, I hope he will not go through with it, for it would be construed into an attack upon the president and this would be unfortunate.

"We must not permit our party differences to lead us into the camp of the enemy where is to be found a warm welcome for all dissenters. We know what republican party control means to the average man—it would be calamitous to go back to it.

"I have not agreed with all that has been done—I have opposed some of the administration proposals, but I have not lost sight of the fact the president has been dealing with a terrible problem, and in spite of the fact that mistakes doubtless have been made, the fact remains that in the two and one-half years of his administration more has been done for agriculture than in the more than 150 years previous history of the government. I think the president is probably daily hazarding his place in history but that he is doing it to help the poor, that he knows it and is unafraid.

Processing Tax Aids Farmer

"The demand for discontinuance of the processing tax on cotton is not a farmer demand and is not made in his interest. This should be apparent to everyone. Reduction of production is necessary to improve price and reduction involves hardship. The processing tax is levied to pay benefits to the farmer, to compensate him for his loss in production and to increase price.

"It is a tax that is paid by the consumer—and is a tariff equivalent, the only way of giving the farmer tariff benefits. To disperse with the tax would call for a general and simultaneous revision of the entire recovery program, agriculture, industrial, social, or else strip the farmer of all protection leaving him exposed to the exploitations of the trader—the whole proposal is too foolish to be seriously considered at this time."

Key Attacks Talmadge

Commenting on the governor's statement that the renomination of Roosevelt would be a calamity, Mayor Key said that not to renominate Roosevelt and re-elect the president would prove a calamity.

The governor has many views and policies which I think, Mayor Key said, "but his program does not take into consideration the unfortunate who are being cared for by the federal government. The state is not in a position to criticize the government for when it is doing nothing to help. I am for the governor's program of economy and for other of his policies, but I cannot agree with him on all of his statements."

President Roosevelt, said the mayor, "has been trying to break the depression and while many may criticize his methods, his objective is sound. His plan is the only constructive one that has been offered by responsible leadership. Opposition parties have found much fault but they have never come forward with any constructive plan."

Referring to Talmadge's opposition to the NRA, Key said it was just one part of the general recovery program and, "the fact that one part may be open to criticism doesn't give you the right to condemn the whole plan."

Repeat Stand Hit

The mayor took the governor to task for not announcing his stand on

Help Kidneys

Don't Take Drastic Drugs

Your kidneys contain 1 million tiny tubes or filters which may be endangered by neglect or drastic, irritating drugs. Be careful. Boy Scout Troop Fingerprinted for U. S. Files

Eleven members of Troop 23, Atlanta Boy Scouts, yesterday afternoon officially inaugurated the personal identification bureau at police headquarters. The fingerprints of the Atlanta scouts, believed to be the first in America to furnish fingerprints, will be forwarded to Washington to be put in the files of the department of justice. The fingerprinting yesterday marks the opening here of the bureau where all citizens so desiring may have their prints made. Scout Thomas Black Jr. is shown in the picture as Captain B. W. Seabrook, head of the Atlanta police department identification bureau makes his fingerprints. Others in the picture are Scoutmaster W. J. Warner and Scouts Carl Aycock, Loy Chandler, Dan Walker, G. prohibition in Georgia. The state will vote in a referendum on May 15 on whether to repeal or retain the prohibition law.

"The governor should make known his stand on prohibition, I think," Key said. "When a man is placed in a high office like the governorship he should clearly state his stand on a moral and economic question like prohibition."

Atlanta's mayor has long been a militant critic of prohibition. He led in the agitation which resulted in the legalization of beer sales in Atlanta although the state law prohibits it.

McRae Mayor Has "Kick"

From Mayor John Stamps, of McRae, seat of Governor Talmadge's home county of Telfair, came this statement:

"The only kick I have against the governor's statements is his reference to the president's physical affliction. I think that uncalled for. Otherwise, I am not saying either way."

From Talmadge's own home town, Mayor Herbert Smart, of Macon, urged prompt co-operation of states with the national government's recovery efforts.

"Every state in the Union should qualify to use its pro rata share of federal appropriations the minute they are made available," Mayor Smart said.

Asked if his remarks were directed at Governor Talmadge's stand, Macon mayor said "that's how I feel, regardless of who feels differently."

Roy Harris Praises F. D. R.

State Representative Roy W. Harris, of Richmond county, said:

"There is only one intelligent leadership in the nation today, that of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Following Roosevelt means following a definite plan. Following no definite plan means chaos and revolution. Roosevelt's is the only definite plan yet before us."

Harris was floor leader of the house at the recent session of the legislature.

Mayor Richard E. Allen Jr., of Augusta, commented:

"I have too many problems of our own right here in Augusta to add to a controversy which can be ended in a minute. Really, the dispute will not result seriously if let alone."

Preacher Praises Fight

"Keep up the fight. God knows we're in times when leaders are needed as never before. Every Baptist preacher with any courage, any sense of his responsibility, will back you to a man," wrote the Rev. A. C. Shuler, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, Jacksonville, Fla.

On the other hand Kathryn M. Carroll, of York, Pa., wrote:

"Any man or woman who could issue such a low down, vile, sneaky expression is not worthy of notice, but your little bluff should be called."

She referred to Talmadge's pointed reference to President Roosevelt, whom he called "an extreme radical."

Later the governor said it would be a national calamity if President Roosevelt should be renominated by the democratic party next year.

"We need in this country more men of your courage to show up this administration in its true colors and to feel sure a great many northerners feel as I do," wrote G. F. Warch, vice president and secretary of an insurance corporation, of New York.

From Talmadge's own home town, McRae, Ga., came the following signed by O. F. McRae:

"It seems to me that you need to get some good advice from some of your true friends."

"A million farmers endorse the processing tax," J. P. McCullay, McKinney, Texas.

"It does my heart good to know, to find in this day of assinine 'reforms' a man in politics who has both the ability and the backbone to speak out. He—Roosevelt—is not as much a democrat as Abraham Lincoln. Bless your heart," Oscar E. Dooly, Turner, Ga.

"May God give you strength to endure the punishment that is sure to be administered with the dictator's $5,000,000,000 political stick," N. H. White, Orangeburg, S. C.

"Congratulations on your virtue and emphatic stand on iniquitous cotton processing tax," E. F. Walker, secretary of the Rhode Island Textile Association, Providence.

A Hagerstown, Md., resident, H. L. Mills, wrote: "When the nation has more men like you in public office and less like Franklin D. Roosevelt, we can be proud to be Americans."

LABOR BACKS COTTON TAX.

NANCE ASSEMBLY AT MACON. MACON, Ga., April 23.—(AP)—A. Steve Nance, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor, said tonight "labor believes the cotton processing tax should not be removed until after the farmer is assured of a fair price for his product."

Addressing an estimated 1,500 people at a citizens' meeting sponsored by Macon labor groups, Nance discussed the cotton processing tax.

Ward reported that he had received 1,641 contracts reducing cotton acreage this year compared with 1,281 contracts last year. Of the entire number of cotton producers in the county the county agent stated that he did not know of but 10 or 15 who were eligible and who have not contracted to cut down their acreage of cotton for the current year.

The figures reveal that Meriwether county farmers are almost to a farm, with a few exceptions, united in favor of the cotton reduction plan, and supporting the administration's efforts to bring about economic recovery to the cotton growers of the south.

CONNECTICUT LABOR GROUP PROTESTS TALMADGE VISIT

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 23.—(AP)—The proposed visit of Governor Eugene Talmadge, of Georgia, to Connecticut next month to participate in the state's tercentenary program at New London was vigorously protested today by Connecticut's organized labor.

The resolution was sent by John J. Egan, secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Labor, with the authorization of the federation's executive board, to former Lieutenant Governor Ernest E. Rogers, of New London; Governor Talmadge and others. Rogers had sent the invitation to the Georgia chief executive to be the principal speaker at the tercentenary program in New London May 19.

The Connecticut Federation of Labor based its action today in support of the New London General Labor Union which had notified the executive board it had voiced its opposition to any appearance by the Georgia governor in connection with the state celebration.

counties. He had been indicted and convicted for lottery violations in DeKalb county and in the criminal court of Atlanta several times, and once in federal court on a whiskey charge, for which he served time in the federal penitentiary.

His activities in the Atlanta whiskey market were curtailed by the general depression in the local bootlegging circles and drove him into the more lucrative fields of the number lottery, it was stated.

Solicitor-General John A. Boykin and Solicitor-General Claude C. Smith, of the Stone Mountain circuit, both recalled Guyol as a leader of the underworld here. His occupation is listed in the city directory as "lawyer."

Death No Surprise

His sudden death last night was no surprise to Solicitor Boykin. Wherever the number racket is prevalent there are many such crimes as murder and assassination, he said. Here in Fulton county there have been numerous sluggings and fights as rival gangs strive to "muscle in" on territory claimed by rival gangs and as some of the operators fail to pay off, Boykin pointed out.

Guyol, formerly a city salesman for a packing house here, was known as "the original number man," and was an official of an organization known as "The Home Company," through which his lottery activities were directed.

Last summer, when DeKalb police made a raid on a Brookhaven home and arrested 18 persons and a complete lottery outfit, Guyol was taken. He was indicted and convicted on charges of operating a lottery and was fined $800 in the DeKalb superior court.

On one occasion he was convicted in Fulton superior court and was sentenced to serve one year and pay

Ickes To Consider PWA Wage Scale Cut

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes intimated today that he would begin conferences soon with union labor leaders looking to a revision downward of the PWA wage scale.

Recently he said all work projects, including PWA, would have a uniform wage scale. The "security" wage planned by the president calls for an average payment of $50 a month with lower rates for unskilled labor.

a fine of $1,000 on a lottery charge, but never served any time and was released upon payment of a portion of the fine.

Guyol's name appeared on the list of Atlantans supplied by W. E. Page, collector of internal revenue, for investigation for possible income tax evasion, for disposition via the Capone route.

Boykin Warns Public

After being informed of Guyol's death, Solicitor Boykin, issued warning to the public that such crimes cannot be curbed as long as the general public supports the "number racket."

Every lottery company in Atlanta is operated by bootleggers or ex-bootleggers, he said. He declared he could not recall ever hearing of a company operated by any other persons. The four large companies operating in Atlanta at present, it was learned are "The Home, The Manhattan, The Metropolitan and the Golden Dollar."

"Stop patronizing the 'number racket' and a great deal of crime will be stopped," he asserted. "Lotteries lead to gang warfare inevitably and from this warfare comes death and destruction."

Solicitor Smith also condemned the public which "plays the bug."

final allocation of funds for projects passed on by Walker and his aids. No immediate indication was given as to when this group would be formally selected.

It has been generally assumed that Secretary Ickes, Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator; Rexford G. Tutwiler, undersecretary of agriculture, and several others would have a prominent part in the spending.

Walker was named by State Representative Guy Jackson, who made the opening address.

Jackson condemned the processing tax and predicted "our great president will correct this iniquitous tax as soon as he investigates it." The representative also urged abolition of all valorem taxes, with income, tangibles and sales taxes replacing it.

Later Nance, asserting a friendly difference, opposed abolition of the processing tax, the farmer is assured a fair price and declared that "the American Federation of Labor will always oppose with all its strength any kind of sales tax." He suggested added income, inheritance and excess profit taxes.

Neither speaker mentioned Governor Talmadge's recent announcement that he will stump the south against the processing tax.

The labor president praised the old Georgia plan of unemployment bills in congress, the first of which, he said, "will put more men to work than any single step which the nation could take." He urged that Georgia plan immediately to co-operate.

J. O. Morgan, president of the Macon Federation of Trades and state vice president, presided at the rally.

FARMERS IN MERIWETHER SUPPORT CUT IN ACREAGE

GREENVILLE, Ga., April 23.—Practically 100 per cent co-operation in reduction of cotton acreage by Meriwether county farmers, the county in which President Roosevelt has his part-time Georgia home at Warm Springs, has been reported by County Agent Frank C. Ward.

Ward reported that he had received 1,641 contracts reducing cotton acreage this year compared with 1,281 contracts last year. Of the entire number of cotton producers in the county the county agent stated that he did not know of but 10 or 15 who were eligible and who have not contracted to cut down their acreage of cotton for the current year.

Motorists who know these facts will save money:

Motor oils refined by the usual methods have some oiliness and film strength, but they may form carbon and sludge, which lead to expensive motor repairs.

Other oils may form almost no carbon and sludge, but are so over-refined that they are robbed of oiliness and film strength they need to prevent motor wear.

Germ Processed Oil is refined to eliminate carbon and sludge troubles and then the Germ Process adds extra oiliness and 2 to 4 times more film strength than any mineral oil.*

YOU will save money on repairs and have a smoother running motor if you use Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil!

The Germ Process—adding concentrated oily essence to highly refined oil—gives it the extra oiliness and film strength so necessary for full protection of high-powered, high-speed motors. No other oil is made by the Germ Process.

Germ Processed Oil cuts down costly starting wear, which other oils fail to do. It is the only oil with the "Hidden Quart" that stays up in your motor and never drains away.

Germ Processed Oil is free from carbon and sludge troubles. It has a lower rate of consumption and gives longer mileage, as proved by the famous Indianapolis Destruction Test.

Say, "O. K.—Drain!"—and fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil.

U. S. ATLANTIC LOAN STOPPED BY COURT

Carolina Federal Jurist Enjoins PWA From Competing With Duke.

GREENVILLE, S. C., April 23.—(AP)—Federal Judge H. H. Watkins today held that use of Public Works Administration funds to establish a local proprietary business in competition with an existing utility was unconstitutional in enjoining Greenwood county and the PWA from carrying out plans for construction of the "Buzards Roost" power project.

The injunction was sought by the Duke Power Company and was directed against the county and Secretary Ickes. An allotment of $2,552,000 for a county-owned hydroelectric plant at Buzards Roost on the Saluda river had been made by the PWA.

Three major questions were involved in the ruling by Judge Watkins. He held:

1. That the power company had the right to seek the injunction because it was a taxpayer in Greenwood county and because its business would be seriously impaired by construction of the project.

2. That the proposed loan was not in compliance with the statute creating the Public Works Administration and that the power company was correct in contending the cost of the construction would exceed the amount to be appropriated.

3. That the proposed contract between the PWA and the county was unconstitutional.

In connection with the latter ruling, he asserted the power plant could not come under the constitutional provision allowing regulation of interstate commerce because it did not propose to do business outside the state of South Carolina.

He ruled also that it could not be allowed under the general welfare powers of the constitution since it was not national in scope, being limited to a relatively small area.

Judge Watkins said the proposed power plant would be in effect a proprietary and not a public enterprise since its primary purpose would be to sell power to private interests.

The rates to be charged, he said, would furnish a yardstick to regulate the rates of the Duke Power Company and its business would be seriously impaired.

With respect to the rates, he said that his opinion was that the rate creating the Public Works Administration was not intended to give to the president and the Public Works Administration the power to regulate electrical rates by forcing companies, irrespective of their ability, to lower rates by means of publicly owned utility plants.

He pointed out that there were other agencies for the regulation of the charges made by utility companies.

In the specific case he held the Duke Power Company with its subsidiary, the Southern Public Utilities Company, was entitled to protection from unfair competition in a section in which it was thoroughly equipped to meet the needs of electricity users and had millions of dollars invested.

The proposed competition from the county plant, he said, would be unfair and illegal.

Judge Watkins pointed out, however, that he did not challenge the abstract right of the government to build utilities or to regulate rates, but was deciding the case on proprietary rights.

He said he followed the interpretation of the powers of the court as laid down by the late Chief Justice Taft that government cannot be changed by judicial opinion, but that every guarantee of the constitution should be maintained and every encroachment resisted.

Mental Test of Solons, Asked by Sect Paper

BOSTON, April 23.—(AP)—An intelligence test to determine the fitness of legislators, both state and national, was proposed tonight by the Zion's Herald, oldest Methodist weekly in the United States.

"In the midst of the hysterical clamor in many states and even in Washington for the passage of 'teachers oath bills,' declares the Herald in its leading editorial, 'we timidly venture to suggest an intelligence test for legislators. Why not? Is it preposterous to demand of our lawmakers some token that they possess qualifications not only in flag-waving but also in the reasoning process?'"

Tiller Accepts Post In Solicitor's Office

J. Sid Tiller, prominent labor figure, announced yesterday he will accept the position on the force of Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, which has been tendered him, and will assume his new duties May 10.

Tiller said he will tender his resignation as third ward alderman and mayor pro tem. at the council meeting May 6, at which successors to both posts are to be named.

The name of Alderman J. A. Harper, Tom McLaren, J. E. Jackson, A. C. Welborn and Charles L. Chosewood.

Tiller in assuming his new position will end 22 years service with the Ruralist Press, where he has been press foreman for the past six years.

Tiller's new duties will be in the statistical department recently established by the solicitor-general for the preservation of data with reference to paroles and pardons and other information relating to persons brought before the courts.

Moffett Dedicates First Housing Project

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP)—Predicting success for the government's efforts to foster the construction of new homes, James A. Moffett, the housing administrator, broke ground in Arlington county, Virginia, today for the nation's first low cost housing project under the national housing act.

While motion picture cameras ground a record of the scene and some 500 persons looked on, Moffett, who has asked to be relieved of his post soon, scooped up a large quantity of dirt. Thereupon, he pronounced the low-cost housing drive on.

With him was Alfred L. Aiken, vice president of the New York Life Insurance Company, which made the loan for the project—a million-dollar apartment house.

Food Prices Gain 2 Pct. in Two Weeks

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP)—A 2 per cent jump in retail food prices during the two weeks ended April 9 was reported today by the Labor Department.

An increase of 6.8 per cent in fruit and vegetable prices accounted for a good share of this rise.

Meats advanced 1.3 per cent; dairy products 3.0; eggs 3.6; miscellaneous foods 0.4, while cereals remained the same.

The same amount of food which cost $1.07 a year ago cost $1.24 the first week of this month. That same amount, however, cost $2.03 in 1929. The low point was two years ago, when that same amount of food cost only 90 cents.

GIRL ADMITS 'SQUEAL' IN GEM THEFT PROBE

MIAMI, Fla., April 23.—(AP)—The sweetheart of one of the two young New Yorkers implicated in the $185,000 jewelry robbery of Mrs. Margaret Hawkesworth Bell, former Follies dancer, here January 26, testified today she "turned them in" to the department of justice.

The young woman, who identified herself as Ruth Kalkor, of Dayton, Ohio, was a surprise witness for the state at the trial of Charles Cali and Nicholas Montone for the robbery of Harry Content, Mrs. Bell's 71-year-old companion.

She testified she lived with Cali eight weeks before the robbery and deserted him when she learned of it. She said she fled to her home in Dayton, Ohio, where she wrote a letter to the department of justice, naming Cali and Montone as robbers.

Other high lights of the involved "inside story" of the robbery included charges by federal officers that a $15,000 reward for return of the jewelry was to have been split by law officers and private detectives; and testimony by Dr. Howard Blake, New York dentist and a traveling companion of Mrs. Bell and Content, that he knew Montone and talked with him a few hours before the holdup.

Miss Kalkor said when Cali returned to their apartment the night of January 26, "he told me he had gone to the Miami Biltmore hotel and that Montone took the jewels from Mrs. Bell while he, Content, and he ran down the stairs and got away."

Montone at Race Track. Dr. Blake, who with his wife accompanied the former dancer and her broker friend from New York, testified he encountered Montone at Hialeah Park race track, where Mrs. Bell wore the jewelry. Montone, whom he had known as the employee of a club at Saratoga, N. Y., he said, inquired at what hotel they were staying.

Charges of a conspiracy to divide the reward money were contained in a statement by government investigators and James Carson, attorney for the hotel, Carson said the statement was based on "admissions" by Eugene Bryant, chief of Miami Beach detectives, who first reported he found the loot in his parked car.

The statement contained the names of Bryant, Benjamin Cohen, attorney for the defendants; C. Harrington, an employee of Noel Scaffa, New York private detective, who testified to a number of other persons, but not by name.

Harrington was with Bryant when the chief returned to Miami Beach headquarters with the loot. Scaffa, who had shortly before returned to New York after a cell conference here with Montone, is suspected of arranging return of the jewelry and an agreement between local law enforcement officers and the victims that the two suspects be shown leniency.

Bryant was said later to have admitted he found the loot in a lock box here, to which he had been handed a key.

U. S. to Press Charges. J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, has announced in Washington that federal charges against all persons implicated in the reported interstate transportation of the jewelry from Miami to New York and back.

Michael F. McNamara, acting lieutenant of New York police, testified today that Montone, arrested in New York at the request of Miami Beach police, confessed the robbery and said he had taken the jewelry north by airplane and turned it over to a man whom he knew as Harry Edwards, of Sunny Side, N. Y.

Thomas F. Fitzgerald, another New York city detective, corroborated McNamara's story.

Montone and Cali are now on trial in the criminal court on charges of robbing Content while armed.

Originally charged with robbing Mrs. Bell, Montone was dismissed for "lack of evidence" and Cali was permitted to plead guilty to robbery not armed and given a short prison sentence. County Solicitor Fred W. Pine informed the court at that time the victims could not identify the robbers and could not swear the robbers were armed.

Protests against the handling of the case resulted in issuance of new warrants.

Mrs. Bell and Content were tied up in their hotel suite by two masked men. The broker lost a watch and $200.

The former dancer estimated the value of her jewels at "probably a quarter million." It developed they were insured for $185,000.

TENNESSEE BEER SHUNK TO 5 PCT.

McAlister Signs Bill Increasing Alcoholic Content From 3.2 Per Cent.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 23.—(AP)—Governor McAlister today signed into law the bill increasing from 3.2 to 5 per cent the alcoholic content of beer sold in Tennessee.

Prior to signing the measure the governor had declined to divulge what action he would take on it. The legislature just before adjourning its 75-day session yesterday, authorized the raising of the beer limit. The senate earlier had refused to agree to that action, but reconsidered on the proposition an additional revenue would result.

This was one of two "liberal" laws enacted. The other gave municipalities authority to legalize Sunday movies, but only Memphis has taken advantage of that act.

Strenuous efforts to legalize liquor on a local option basis failed.

NEW LIQUOR BILL FAVORED IN N. CAROLINA

RALEIGH, N. C., April 23.—(AP)—A substitute liquor bill proposing a statewide referendum on establishment of a state system of whisky stores in the state of North Carolina was favorably reported to the house today by its finance committee.

The house ended a long week-end Easter holiday with a session at noon, while the senate was due to meet at 12 o'clock. The bill on third reading at a session in mid-afternoon.

The new liquor bill came as a surprise, its drafting having been kept secret, and was reported to replace the Day measure which had proposed a three-way referendum, with the voters expressing first and second choices on retention of prohibition, a state store system for selling liquor, and a general licensing of liquor dealers.

In the meantime the Hill liquor store bill, already debated at length, reported on the senate calendar, with "without prejudice" label from the senate finance committee. In original form it called for a statewide referendum but its sponsors are also offering a county option measure.

The substitute house bill calls for a referendum on June 8 of this year if the measure passes. A vote of three members would direct the liquor control system if 12 counties voted for stores. No tax is imposed but the board of control could set prices at such a figure as to make a profit and still compete with bootleggers in law prices.

WINE BILL AWAITS CAROLINA GOVERNOR

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 23.—(AP)—A bill to legalize the manufacture and sale of 14 per cent wine in South Carolina was ready today to be sent to the governor for his signature or veto.

House concurrence in a senate amendment prepared the measure for ratification.

Governor Olin D. Johnston had no comment upon the measure, he said, pending reception of it from the legislature.

"I have not read the bill," he explained.

The house also passed and sent to the senate a bill which its sponsors said would aid materially in relieving overcrowding at the state penitentiary.

The bill, introduced by the house penitentiary committee, would authorize the use of state convict labor by the highway department for the construction and maintenance of roads.

FUND DIVERSION SEEN TO BALANCE FLA. BUDGET

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 23.—(AP)—A plan calling for a grant of $5,000,000 from gasoline tax revenue for maintenance of a balanced budget and providing for schools, was submitted to the legislature today by Governor Dave Sholtz as a means of escaping a sales tax.

It was Governor Sholtz' third suggestion to the lawmakers body as a way to balance the budget and state without passing a sales tax measure. Half the gasoline tax revenue would be diverted from counties and the other half from the state general fund.

First official reaction to the plan, however, was one of opposition. In an informal discussion of the suggestion, the house finance and taxation committee indicated it did not favor the proposal. In view of sentiment voiced by county judges, Chairman H. N. Sandler, of Tampa, said, "It looks like we'll pass the sales tax."

In accordance with Sholtz' proposal, schools would be assured $10,500,000 annually during the next two years plus $500,000 for free text books for all grades. To achieve this sum, the governor also suggested doubling the state's share of pari-mutual betting revenue and an increased tax on insurance premiums.

Funds from automobile license tags and the constitutional one-mill school levy would be continued as school revenue.

The county gas tax which Sholtz proposed to reallocate is the one cent now distributed on a population basis.

SCIENTISTS EXPECT SOON TO PREDICT PERSON'S LIFE SPAN

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP)—The possibility that scientists soon may be able to predict the length of a person's life span, barring accidents and disease, was held out today in a medical discovery announced before the National Academy of Sciences.

Dr. Felix Banting, of the University of Toronto, said he had found that the length of life in many cases is closely correlated with the time at which the eyes begin to harden and lose their elasticity.

People whose eyes lenses harden early, die earlier than those whose lenses harden at a later age. In most persons this change begins to be noticeable at the age of 45 to 50.

Length of life, or the speed of growing old that is measured by the changes in the eye lenses is hereditary, Dr. Bernstein said.

Masculine Exhibitors in Majority For Coming Rose Show at Biltmore

They are a little bit shy in exhibiting, some of these men who in the day time work at such prosaic jobs as carpentering, maintaining telephone lines and clerking in stores, but they are true artists, creative artists in the twilight hours when they work among their roses, cultivating, cross-breeding, seeking ever increasingly beautiful forms, types and colors. This year, at the third annual rose show to be held next Wednesday at the Biltmore hotel by the Biltmore Garden Club it is expected that more exhibits will be made by men rosarians than by women.

"The men have been a little timid in displaying," said Mrs. Charles LeRoux, an official of the show, "but they are coming forward each year in increasing numbers. Love of rose culture seems to know no limits as to station, age or nationality."

Among the men exhibitors will be Dr. L. C. Lecher, prominent Atlanta physician. He will receive keen competition from Claude Smith, a carpenter, and Harold Bowden, telephone company worker, as well as from Henry Newman, who last year entered the best rose of the show.

The display will be open from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock at night and will serve as a climax to the national convention of the American Rose Society which will be held here Monday and Tuesday.

For the first time this year the displays will be state-wide and more than 200 of Georgia's leading amateur rosarians, of which a majority will be men, will exhibit. On all sides in gorgeous bursts of color—crimson, pink, yellow—will be shown the cream of the state's crop.

An especially attractive display will be the exhibit of the genealogy of the tallman rose. It will be shown in all its beautiful varieties, predecessors, antecedents and sports. Another interesting display will be of an educational nature illustrating the correct methods of pruning and giving data as to the correct time for this important work.

Many magnificent blooms defying description and a great number of them the product of "twilight gardens" of father or big brother, will be entered in the individual competition of specimen roses. There will also be a garden club competition for group displays of various organizations and grammar schools will exhibit specimens from their gardens.

Any rosarian having 25 or more bushes in his or her garden may enter exhibits. It was announced by Mrs. Francis Dryer, chairman of public relations, that the show will be held at the Biltmore hotel, Wednesday, April 24, from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock at night.

China To Train Youths In Military Tactics

NANKING, China, April 23.—(AP)—All male high school and college students were ordered today to undergo at least a year's period of intensive military training.

Chiang Kai-shek, generalissimo of the nationalist government's armies, issued the order as part of a program designed to construct a modern, efficient war machine.

At the expiration of a decade the general expects that China will have become a first-rate military power, able to cope with any situation. He seeks 100,000 trained reservists each year.

REPEAL DEBATED BEFORE KIWANIS

Councilman Hastings Argues for Repeal; Fleetwood Speaks for Drys.

Arguments for and against repeal of the state bone-dry laws were presented to the Atlanta Kiwanis Club Tuesday at the weekly luncheon meeting at the Ansley hotel with Councilman William G. Hastings, secretary of the Georgia Association for local option presenting the repealist case and Milton L. Fleetwood, of Carterville, director of the Georgia Temperance League, speaking in behalf of prohibition.

Both speakers summed up the situation in their presentation and both received applause from the Kiwanis membership.

In his argument Mr. Fleetwood declared that the $3,000,000 revenue yield anticipated by the repealist forces will not be received even should the local option plan be approved.

"The people of Georgia will literally have to drink rivers of whiskey and wine if the sum estimated by the opponents of prohibition is received," Mr. Fleetwood declared. "We all must drink and all of our employees must drink and drink plenty and regularly; in fact, unceasingly, if the state is to get anything near like what the opponents of prohibition claim will be paid in taxes."

Funds for Schools.

Councilman Hastings did not stress the amount of revenue estimated from the 10 per cent sales tax imposed on liquor but did stress the fact that all funds yielded from the tax will go directly to the common schools.

"And despite what anyone may say

Third European Tour Offered Emory Club

A request for permission to book the Emory University Glee Club for a third European concert tour in 1936 has been received by Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey, director, from the Imperial Concert Agency of London. The quality of music presented by the organization has been improved constantly since 1928. Dr. Dewey declared in expressing his opinion that a 1936 tour would be even more successful than the previous trips.

John Griffin, assistant business manager of the club, is now in England, accompanying Robert Wiggins and Robert Elliott of the debating team and conferring with English and European agents. The club probably will make a preliminary trip to New York during the 1936 winter season, it was said.

about this provision, it was written into the act upon which the people will vote," Mr. Hastings said. "It was written into the constitution of Georgia in 1877 by Robert Toombs and the great statesmen of that day who realized that a permanent method of raising funds for our schools should be established."

Mr. Fleetwood predicted Georgia would vote overwhelmingly in favor of retention of the bone-dry law in the May 15 referendum.

"The question of revenue is the only real argument advanced by the wets," he declared. "This cannot stand up under investigation. The facts reveal the argument is fallacious and of unknown possibilities. Even Uncle Sam with all of his army of tax gatherers has been unable to collect half of the amount of liquor taxes it was estimated that repeal would bring."

Hastings Sums Up.

In summing up his conclusions, Mr. Hastings said:

"How can the dries explain why legally dry Georgia has more crime per capita than any other city in the country and legally dry Memphis more murders annually than are committed in all of England?"

"The repeal act specifies that 'nothing in this act shall be construed to permit the operation of an open saloon.' Hotels under the act cannot sell alcoholic beverages unless they have been in continuous operation for 12 months prior to application for their permit. Thus, people cannot rent a shack, paint the word 'hotel' on it and sell liquor."

"People may vote for repeal on May 15 and still keep their counties legally dry forever."

"The referendum of May 15 gives voters a chance to say whether they believe in states' rights by giving every county the right to decide the liquor question for itself."

Fleetwood's sure of victory. Mr. Fleetwood's closing statements were his prediction of victory in the referendum.

"I have witnessed many moves for temperance," he said, "but I have never seen such a mounting tide of enthusiasm for a cause. Such an overwhelming flood of offers have we received I am certain the bone-dry law will be retained by a large majority when Georgia gets her opportunity to vote."

WOMAN, 2 MEN SUFFER FRACTURES OF PELVIS

Three persons were admitted yesterday to Grady hospital, each with a fractured pelvis. Two of them also received fractured legs.

Mrs. Josephine Daniel, 78, fell down the stone steps at 323 Bryant avenue and received a fractured pelvis and a fractured left leg.

Gus Welch, 60, of 43 Weyman avenue, was working on the roof of a house on Fair street and fell to the ground, receiving a fractured pelvis and other injuries, and Oscar Dobbs, 34, received a fractured pelvis and a fractured right leg when his automobile turned over yesterday near his home at Alpharetta.

Grant, admire some of the many hundreds of pieces of knitted and crocheted work sent in during their yarn contest. Seventy-two Grant stores from Virginia to Texas were represented and 14 prize winners were selected to be sent to New York to compete for the national prize. The remaining entries will be on display at Grant's through Friday.

Irish Horse Traders Trekking Here For Annual Burial Rites Saturday

The Roving Irish Horse Traders will bury their dead here Saturday.

It is the date of the annual funeral service of the organization, at which rites are held for all members of the clan who have died during the last year.

Three members are to be paid tribute this year as services to be held at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning at the Immaculate Conception church.

They are: Mrs. Katie Gorman, 36, who died June 26, 1934, at Roanoke, Va.; John (Snag), 64, who died at the Cherokee camp on Marietta road on October 19, 1934, and Katie Sherlock, 1 year old, who died October 9, 1934, in Columbia, S. C.

The annual trek of the horse traders is already begun and daily members of the clan are arriving at their headquarters at the Cherokee camp. They come in cars and trucks, the conveyances which have done so much harm to their business, from almost every point in the country.

During the year they range from coast to coast, from border line to border line, but early in the spring they begin the journey to Atlanta for the funeral.

The Rev. Father Joseph Moylan will officiate at the triple rites and the three will be buried in the Irish Horse Traders' lot in West View cemetery. Brandon-Bond-Condor are in charge of the funeral.

The occasion is the annual gathering of the horse traders—the only time in the year families are assured of seeing all their relatives. Here, a brother will greet his sister for the first time since April of 1934, perhaps. They will attend the services Saturday and maybe will linger in Atlanta renewing family ties for a day or so longer. Then they are off again, wending their various ways through every section of the state, carrying on the trade which has been handed down to them through the ages. Next spring they will be back to honor those friends and relatives who die during the coming 12 months.

Constitution Traffic Insurance Offers Protection at Low Cost

Do bargains interest you?

Chances are you make haste to purchase shirts or dresses or furniture when they are advertised at a fraction of their original cost.

Then why not avail yourself of a far more important commodity at a phenomenally cheap rate; a commodity that is more vital to your prosperity and the comfort and well-being of your wife and children than any merchandise?

The insurance offered you through The Atlanta Constitution is issued by the North American Accident Insurance Company of Chicago, Ill., which company has already paid Atlanta Constitution subscribers over $200,000. The insurance is offered to subscribers of the daily and Sunday Constitution and immediate dependent members of the subscriber's family between the ages of 15 and 69 on the one subscription going into effect at a small registration fee of 20 cents with application and 10 cents per month thereafter in addition to the subscription price, or $1 each per policy per year in advance to subscribers who live in Atlanta and Atlanta suburbs where we have carrier delivery. Out-of-town subscribers can have this insurance by paying $1 per policy per year in advance.

This insurance offered through The Georgia Power Company officials yesterday asserted that the company's clocks will be moved up to conform with daylight saving time when the change becomes effective here at 1 a. m. next Sunday.

Every department, including the traction service, will conform to the new schedules, and an official bulletin from the company asserted that peak and rush loads of commuters will be watched carefully to ascertain whether or changes in the time the special cars are placed in operation are needed.

Information as to schedules of various cars will be available through the starters' office at Walnut 6121, but the announcement stated clearly that the clocks will be advanced an hour and that the company will plan to handle its peak morning and evening loads at the same new clock time as they do now. In other words, if the peak load is from 7 until 9:30 a. m. and from 4:30 until 6 p. m. now it will be the same clock time under the new schedule.

Company officials asserted that everything possible will be done to prevent any discomfort to the public and that if changes are necessary, they will be made.

SEVEN MEN INDICTED ON ROBBERY CHARGES

A series of chain-store robberies resulted in the indictment yesterday by Fulton county grand jury of Luther L. Chadwick, Raymond Kerr, Albert Wheelless and Hubert D. Stephens. Chadwick is named in four bills, Kerr in two, and Wheelless and Stephens in one each. The alleged robberies were all committed in April and amounts ranging from $20 to $70 were taken.

R. B. Haynie, J. C. McConnell Jr. and Muse Reese, store and S. H. Kress & Company suspects, were named in a bill charging the burglary of the store of Charles P. Suber December 16, in which $220 in cigarettes and stamps and $214 in cash were taken.

Possession of burglary tools is charged in a bill returned against Joel Randall, alleged associate of Aubrey Smith and Leland Harvey. Named in the bill also are Fred Head and Mrs. Irene Head. Officers found a quantity of dynamite and other burglars' paraphernalia when they arrested Randall in the Head home after he had escaped from the jail at Macon.

THREE SENTENCED TO DIE ON MAY 10

Three men were sentenced to death yesterday in Fulton superior court, breaking an all-time record for death sentences in one day. The date of execution for all three was set for Friday, May 10, by Judge G. H. Howard.

The doomed men are Marion F. Morris, a house painter, and Charles Stone, negro, both convicted of criminal attack and Robert Payne, negro, convicted of the murder of another negro.

WETS OPTIMISTIC AFTER STATE TOUR

Leaders Report 30 of 40 Counties Visited Will Vote for Repeal.

Georgia repeal campaign leaders returned to Atlanta Tuesday after a two weeks' tour of the extreme southern end of the state and claimed that at least 30 of the 40 counties they visited are going to vote for repeal in the May 15 referendum.

"The prohibitionists are making a lot of noise but the repealists are going to get the votes," Spence Grayson, chairman of the Georgia Association for Local Option, said as he and S. Marvin Griffin, of Bainbridge, vice chairman of the association, returned to Atlanta. "The dries of Georgia are going to get the biggest shock of their lives when the votes are counted May 15."

Grayson and Griffin said they would leave Atlanta today for a swing through north Georgia and return to their headquarters in the Healey building here next Monday.

"We visited a total of 40 counties during our south Georgia trip," Grayson continued in discussing the tour. "Of these we can safely say that at least 30 will be in the repeal column. Six appear to be dry by a narrow margin while the remaining four are in the doubtful column."

Grayson said that the sentiment for repeal seemed to be based more on a desire of the people for control of the liquor traffic rather than a desire to increase the revenue for the common schools of the state.

"Businessmen everywhere who are being taxed to death by their state county, local and federal government are coming to realize that the liquor dealer should share the tax burden rather than be the cause for expenditure of so much of the tax the business people are paying," Grayson said.

"These taxpayers want the schools given adequate funds and they know they are not getting them now and that those who are now paying taxes can pay no more. The only other alternate is to get an industry and people who are not now being taxed. Liquor is the only business in Georgia which goes untaxed and those who now bear the burden are going to do their part to see that it is taxed after May 15."

On their north Georgia tour Grayson and Griffin said they plan to visit Cartersville, Calhoun, Rome, Lafayette, Chatsworth, Gainesville, Athens, Thomson, Washington and Augusta before returning to Atlanta.

Report on Foulis Ordered by May 1

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP)—The house military committee decided today to give the war department until May 1 to report on its investigation of charges of "gross misconduct and inefficiency" made against Major General Benjamin D. Foulis, chief of the army air corps.

The charges were made by the committee which seeks to oust Foulis from his command. Chairman McSwain, democrat, South Carolina, was instructed to inform Secretary Dern that unless a report is submitted by May 1 the committee would summon Major General John F. Preston, inspector general, to explain the delay.

A WARNING TO AMERICA

With government-sponsored air interests in both France and Germany studying the air lines to America, further assurance is given that regular commercial service across the North Atlantic will be established in the not distant future.

At the same time, American aviation interests are put on notice that unless plans are materialized for trans-Atlantic flights foreign competition will get the jump on them and launch the first regular schedules, as has already been done by both Germany and France in the lines connecting South America with Europe.

Upon his recent return to Paris from the United States, Louis Couche, director of civil aviation in the French air ministry, expressed the conviction that regular flights across the Pacific "will be possible in the near future." To that end he pledges the assistance of the government in the solution of "meteorological problems, the political problem and questions of technique and material."

In Germany, Dr. E. Rumpler, designer and builder of numerous types of planes that have proven uniformly successful, is now developing a giant 170-passenger flying boat that will make the trip between Hamburg and New Orleans in from 16 to 18 hours.

The new plane will be radically different in design to those now being used in commercial service, consisting of a single huge wing in which will be contained not only the gasoline and oil supplies but the quarters for passengers and crew. The speed of the plane would permit it to make the trip from California to Hawaii in 12 hours and complete the trip to China, via the Philippines, in a day and a half.

The successful round trip of the Pan-American clipper ship between San Francisco and Honolulu assures that American airships will be the first to inaugurate regular schedules across the northern Pacific, but the new interest being evidenced in Europe in trans-Atlantic commercial flights may result in the establishment of a foreign air line from Europe to America before American ships begin to fly the route, if plans are not pushed up on this side of the ocean.

EUROPE'S WANDERERS

Recent news reports from Europe describe one of the most distressing phases of the unsettled conditions on the continent—the existence of thousands of men and women refugees who, for various reasons, are people without a country.

Some are political and religious refugees, but the larger part are victims of post-war migration restrictions who for years have escaped being routed from their homes, but who are now being forced to "move on" because it has been found that their immigration papers are not in order.

Following the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, thousands of Hungarians were driven from homes they had established in the country of the slain monarch and herded to the Hungarian border. Other wholesale exoduses have taken place in the Saar, Germany, the Soviet Union and the lesser countries of middle and eastern Europe.

Most of these men and women are victims of the new spirit of flaming nationalism that has swept over Europe. A London dispatch reports that "their plight, as they wander from place to place with stunned, despairing faces, is pitiable in the extreme."

So grave has the problem become that organizations to raise funds to be turned over to any country that will furnish them refuge have been formed in London, Paris and New York. The political and religious refugees are no longer wanted in their own countries and the immigrants who have been driven from their new homes are also being barred from the nations they sought to find fortune elsewhere.

Their existence is chiefly attributable to the bungling efforts of the treaty of Versailles in remaking the map of Europe along racial lines. These efforts, instead of bringing to an end the suspicions and distrusts which have kept the continent in unrest for centuries, has intensified racial hatreds and created a horde of people without a country.

In past years the undesirable of Europe's various populations could find refuge in America, coming to this country by the hundred thousands each year. Since the United States has put up strict immigration barriers this outlet no longer exists and Europe's homeless are accordingly wandering from one country to another, homeless and hopeless.

NEW ENGLAND SQUIRMS

The press and the public generally of New England have joined with the industrial interests of the section in bitter protest against the frank speech delivered in Maine by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in which he discussed the demand of the textile manufacturers for abolition of the processing tax on cotton.

That the straight-talking western member of the Roosevelt cabinet jarred the New Englanders out of their habitual reserve is evidenced in the vigorous comment of the Boston Herald that the speech is a "shameless exhibition of ignorance and bias, not to say malice."

This generally staid Massachusetts newspaper feels that "Mr. Wallace not only attacked the cotton textile industry, which everybody is trying to save from extinction, but indicted and condemned New England as a whole," and further recites that—

He said that we are "whining" that we have lost our "initiative and puts" that we are "flabby" that our cities are "parasitical" that we are sending up a "smoke screen" and using the "cloak of publicity" to escape the processing tax; that we are trying to punish the south. To him, our past is disgraceful and our present is vitiated by our effort to rob the south. As for our future, he suggested that we might give up our cotton mills and specialize on the manufacture of pre-fabricated houses!

Whatever doubt New Englanders may have had as to his attitude toward them may now be dismissed. He scorns and despises New England.

A different attitude is expressed by many of the south's leading newspapers, as illustrated by the opinion of the Memphis Commercial Appeal that while "it may be popular in some of the upper circles of finance to cuss Secretary Wallace, it will be a long, long time before a more vigorous, more refreshing and more smashing reply is made to the New England cotton interests."

This influential southern newspaper points out that—

Of course, the loss of cotton mills is nothing new to New England. It began 30 years ago when southern waterpower, southern labor, and the proximity to the cotton markets, made it profitable to establish mills in the south, and unprofitable for New England mills to compete with them. This condition developed before the AAA was ever dreamed of, and will continue regardless of how long the AAA survives.

The chief weakness of the position of the New England textile manufacturers is that they have coupled their demand for the abolition of the processing tax with protests against the slight wage differential given the south under the textile code.

This differential is given southern mills because they supply low-cost housing for their operatives, while the employees of New England mills must rent their own quarters at greater expense. In addition, few northern mills furnish their employees the costly advantages of hospitalization, recreational and educational features furnished by the mills of this section.

In the meanwhile, the New England mills are bitterly contesting every effort to abrogate the unfair and unjust freight rate differentials they enjoy at the expense of southern manufacturers.

Not until the eastern mills assume a fairer position in their relations with those of the south can they expect the co-operation and sympathy of the industrialists of this section.

A rumor persists that New York's prodigal son, Jimmy Walker, will return to politics there. Our thoughts, if any, are with the fatted calf.

A lawyer in Chicago turned robber because the law business was poor. He is not too proud to go back to it, though, if times improve.

An off key voice is invaluable in any band of strolling carolers at Yuletide, as a householder will pay them more to hurry on.

Relief-hunting mayors are advancing on Washington in droves. It's the old bonus army, in spats.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Fallacy of Wisdom Teeth.

It is to be supposed that wisdom teeth were so called because they are the last to appear, so that their emergence was assumed to coincide with those "years of discretion" which some of us would never reach if we lived to be a thousand. Their actual connection with wisdom has thus always been rather remote, and a lecture just delivered at the Royal College of Surgeons in England now seems to leave it disastrously distant. For an example was cited of a young man who was "tending to lose all his moral sense" when his "normal self" was happily restored by the extraction of his wisdom teeth. A definite "delusion" on the part of another patient was cured by removing a wisdom tooth, and a case of suicidal mania had been completely cleared up by the extraction of these obviously embarrassing fangs to which our forefathers must have attached an entirely mistaken significance.

Those who believe possessing the articles in question may now feel less inclined to mention their existence; we might be very much better and brighter if they were extracted, and in any event there is nothing to be gained by drawing attention to their dubious presence. Wisdom is justified of her children—but not, apparently of her teeth.

The Motor Age.

How thoroughly the younger generation has become motor-minded, or perhaps the twentieth-century phrase should be "car-consciousness" is shown by a conversation overheard in a news agency's waiting room. A boy had occasion to use the word "automobiles," but, strange as it may seem, was momentarily stumped for the word. He compromised beautifully by describing the vehicle as "the place down the road where they garage the horses."

Cardinal and Man.

Cardinal Faulhaber, archbishop of Munich, he's a threat of excommunication over the heads of Nazi leaders one noon Sunday in a slashing sermon against the new semi-official campaign which aims at getting rid of Catholic and Protestant schools in Bavaria. The archbishop exhorted all housewives to refuse to continue to send their children to Catholic schools, and declared that "whoever passes laws against the freedom of the church is liable to excommunication." The cardinal asked what guarantees he listed that the single German school for which the Bavarian Nazis were protesting would not be the path to a similar school for "The split in Germany today," declared the archbishop, "is not, as Nazi reformers say, between Catholics and Protestants but between Catholics and Protestants and both our churches." He made formal protest against two violations of the Concordat in Bavaria during the last fortnight—the banning of parents' meetings at which priests were to have spoken and the seizure of church letters which had been dispatched to mothers and fathers of school children.

Added formality was given to the archbishop's protest by the presence of the papal nuncio, who presided over the church service. A vast crowd blocked the street outside St. Michael's and loudly cheered not only the German dignitary but also the ex-German prince, Rupprecht of Bavaria, who heard the sermon. "Hoch, Rupprecht!" they shouted. "Hoch, Bavaria!"

Health Talks

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY

REVERSING THE DEGENERATION.

What the headline reader understands by the term degeneration is not at all what a physician means. Degeneration in medical parlance has no particular reference to moral or mental caliber. It refers to the physical body. Degeneration is a retrogressive pathological change in the tissues and in consequence of which the function is impaired or weakened, and if the change is not stopped or reversed function is finally lost.

For instance, "degeneration" of the heart, is a fairly familiar term. It means that muscle cells in the heart wall have become gradually converted into fat; it does not mean merely accumulation of excess fat around the heart. Then doctors recognize hyaline degeneration, amyloid degeneration, albinoid degeneration, calcareous degeneration, senile degeneration and what have you.

Where a degenerative process is the result of some disease or some form of intoxication, poisoning whose source, nature or cause we do not know, obviously there is little likelihood that we can stop it, and, therefore, the only way to stop it is to stop the process of years' duration and reverse it by merely stopping the poisoning for a month? You'd be disappointed. But if you had more sense and stopped the poisoning for a year, then you might begin to see some regeneration, some return of function, some improvement in health.

People who are overweight suffer from degeneration. Unfortunately it sometimes includes their self-respect or their concern about physical health and efficiency, capacity to enjoy life and attain longevity. And so they become resigned to their fate, content to smother in their own adipose, and not only obese but fat. She is rebellious against rescue from their sad plight.

Many adults past their prime and the first stages of general fatness submerge have rather feebly responded to my urgings to try for a comeback. At least they have responded to follow the regimen I recommend for safe and healthy weight control. But how characteristic of this type of degeneracy is the complaint of many of them, that after a whole week or two on the easy regimen I recommended (I know it's easy because I've followed it myself) they are still as hungry as ever and as fat as ever. Investigation in a number of such complaints disclosed that they are still liars and cheaters, too. Their character is degenerated, too.

There are no miracles in store for them. It takes time, and an earnest effort or desire on your own part, to stop that degenerative process and reverse it.

MISERABLE COMPANY

WASHINGTON, April 23.—A lot of good democratic congressmen are secretly pulling for Huey in his hair-pulling fracas with PWA Director Ickes. They would never enter into it publicly, but the fact is some of their states have suffered many similar troubles with the dispenser of federal largess. It is a case of misery appreciating even such bad company as Huey.

Any close observer could see they rather enjoyed seeing Huey yank at the wispy locks of Mr. Ickes. A couple of them come up to him later and told him so. They did not know or care much about the facts in the case. Nor did they like the idea of dragging in President Roosevelt's name. Privately they felt Huey was leading himself into forensic excesses which may ruin his case. Yet any one attacking Mr. Ickes might be considered in a sense as their friend.

Thus, for the first time in his life or theirs, Huey found himself being patted on the back in the cloakrooms by some of his enemies.

SOVEREIGNTY The administration is going to some length to avoid appearances of interference with the states. If you ask about what happened to all the bills they sent out for the state legislatures to pass, the New Dealers will shift you from department to department without an answer. It is an indisputable fact, however, that 21 state legislatures have now adjourned without enacting many of the bills suggested by the PWA, FHA, NRA, FERA, FDIC and FCA. Even the New Dealers admit that the number of state legislatures which have fallen in line is "very small." Indeed, there appears to be good ground for suspecting that the legislatures generally sulked in silent rebellion against most of the state legislation sent to them from Washington.

The PWA prepared as many as 500 bills for all the state legislatures. The most received by any one state was 20 and the lowest by one state was one. The bills vary in each state due to local laws. Their general objective is to remove limitations on powers of states and localities to borrow money, issue bonds and engage in public works.

The failure of the legislatures leave the PWA in an acute situation. PWA-ers say it would not be accurate to say that a state failing to co-operate would be denied PWA funds. Yet it is fairly well understood here and elsewhere that the states and governors who play ball will receive "a better opportunity" for consideration in Washington.

DENIALS Of course, you understand the New Dealers all insist this is not coercion. Both Mr. Ickes and Secretary Perkins (in connection with social security legislation) say they sent out the bills mostly on request and are not checking on what happened to them.

In the case of the FHA, however, Mr. Roosevelt has publicly requested governors to push the laws through. He has succeeded so far in 37 states.

SKIN-GAME Trimmings suffered in the world marts by the Yankee traders of the New Deal have not been widely advertised, but there have been several.

Most interesting is that one arranged by the Export-Import bank whereby the Pullman Company could make important sales to Brazil. Under it, Pullman underbid the Germans. Then the Germans withdrew their bid and put in a new one, still lower. It was based on an exchange of Brazilian cotton for German cars. So the Germans got the business.

What makes the Yankee traders feel slightly is the fact that the Brazilian-German deal involved the same principle they rejected in dealing with Germany and one of the reasons they rejected it was because protests came from—you guessed it—Brazil.

TAXES A unique new tax plan is being talked about in treasury circles. It would do three things: (1) Reduce income rates below $5,000; (2) reduce exemptions to make the little fellows all pay something; (3) boost rates in the middle brackets and on inheritance taxes.

You may or may not hear something about this before congress adjourns. But you will hear about it eventually, for this is the line along which the treasury brain men are thinking. It may sound, off-hand, like a confusing idea, but it is really well thought out. The great bulk of the population (and the voters) are in classes underneath $5,000. It would cost the treasury little to grant many of them a tax reduction before the next election. The little fellows, now exempt, would be tapped for only a few cents apiece. To make it more popular, the $5,000—and up—class could be asked to attend.

The best indications now are that this plan will wait until next session, just prior to the presidential elections. However, it is the basis of what Speaker Byrns had in mind a week or so ago when he significantly mentioned the subject of tax reduction to the house.

HOUSING

A fancy infidelity is taking place between candidates for House of Representatives (FHA) Job. Most active are the friends of Ward Canaday, advertising man, who stands out as a leading FHA literature during the past six months of that organization's existence. He is supposed to have the backing of Commerce Secretary Roper. A bid for Farley support has been made in his behalf.

Moffett is supposed to favor Steward MacDonald, one-time St. Louis police commissioner and ex-head of Moon Motors. The betting by members of the staff is 2 to 1 in favor of MacDonald. Some are betting the FHA will not last as a major project for another year, no matter who wins the job.

It Is the Want of a Mirror That Makes the Pot Call the Kettle Black

By Robert Quillen

In our town lived a boisterous and light-hearted young man whose way of life offended the righteous and yet detracted nothing from his popularity.

He swore mighty oaths when the world displeased him; played draw poker with convivial friends; and went out of his way to look for trouble when he was in his cups. These were his sins.

The virtues that balanced them were generosity and integrity. He was the friend and partisan of anybody who needed help, and he was so honest and so proudly faithful to his pledges that nobody in the county asked better security than his word.

Among the few people he disliked was an older man who was proudly conscious of his superiority to the sinful. He had no vices or bad habits; he was a pillar in the church; he boldly condemned gamblers, drinkers and all manner of evil.

Yet both his word and his signature proved worthless when adversity came and many who had trusted him were impoverished.

Now, both of these men were egoists, who saw no fault in themselves, and each despised the sins of the other. Either would have been astonished and outraged if anybody had told him that he was not the other's superior.

That attitude is typical of America. The moralist, who is legion, has little charity for his fellow sinners. Their faults seem a personal affront. He feels and often expresses a self-righteous contempt for them. They are inferiors.

Yet if he would write down the tally of his wrongdoing since his fourteenth birthday—omitting no secret sin or dishonesty or craven lie or shameful act—the score would leave him little reason to feel superior to other men.

It is a poor memory more than virtue that makes self-righteousness, and never yet has a poor memory made anybody superior.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON
By MOLLIE MERRICK

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 23.—She's the cutest little bright-eyed lady, and she came to Hollywood to see the talkie stars. She lunched in all the famous places for three weeks, and saw many a one.

Then, one memorable day, she recognized an actor eating at the table right next to her. Eating, even as you or I or any common mortal.

Now she's going home to tell her grandchildren all about it. She is perfectly satisfied with the results of her journey. She has seen a Hollywood famous one close up. The actor is Henry Armetta!

TALE OF A BURNED RUG.
The famous Westmore of Hollywood decided to open a beauty salon that would outdo all the great beauticians' endeavors. Now the Westmore makes wigs, false eyelashes and false finger-nails, and practically all false faces on Hollywood stars. They invited the press for a cocktail party first.

For this first party they decided to cover their valuable off-white rug with canvas. For, they thought, these

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Judging NEW YORK, April 23. Nations, meant is slow and disconcerting in this country, being subject to setbacks such as the Kentucky hanging, in which the trampled flower of civilization, victim of the star performer's error, looked on amid a crowd of 1,800, glaring her demand that he go ahead and git hung.

Ambassadors we have had who wore buckles shoes and satin bloomers to the Court of St. James' and never wiped their knives on their broad, high school boys, even in the rural districts, wear dinner jackets to the proms and, sometimes, smoke marijuana while sitting out dances with the co-eds in dark parlors along the packing line. The suburban hired man has acquired a white jacket and now knows moments when he is a butler. And Louisiana State University has the biggest and loudest damn band in the world, bar none.

Unquestionably this represents progress in the direction of the country's yearning and a degree of pride is perceptible except at moments when something comes loose and the whole line backslides to the rude frontier. The neighbors, being human and critical, like to judge a country by its most humiliating episodes, forgetting the achievements which it is proudest of. So now, the British papers and the German papers, too, will ignore Mrs. Harrison Williams' wardrobe, the ivy on the walls of Princeton University and the three-million-dollar garage which Tunney and Dempsey drew, to gaze at the advance of the United States by the hindmost act of a laggard community.

Embarrassing Coming so soon after the execution of the two German ladies by the axman in the home of the Berlin Jolly, the shabby ceremony at Smithland, Ky., is the more embarrassing to Americans with a decent respect for the opinion of their kind.

In the Berlin of Adolf Hitler dignity and form pervaded the ceremonies. The axman presented himself to each of the ladies with a courteous bow, the guests conducted themselves with a politeness which bespoke generations of culture and ad-mission was by card only.

In Smithland, Ky., William De Boe, 22, himself a country boy, had no conception of proper behavior under the circumstances and contributed as much as his accuser, Mrs. Marjorie De Boe, to the general display of bad manner. De Boe harangued the crowd for just one minute under an hour and the lady permitted herself to be drawn into an exchange of repartee which did not befit the occasion.

For $500, the young man said, he could have repaired the loss of that which he said to be more precious than pearls.

"No," the lady shouted. "Not for a thousand dollars."

This is a lot of money, to be sure, but since De Boe was dealing only in figures and not cash, he might have gone ahead to bid up the price out of natural curiosity. Now he will never know what the answer would have been if he had said, "Twelve hundred, then?"

Delicacy En- Not only this attempt at bargaining in a solemn moment, but the personnel and gala of the thing around the scaffold are in painful contrast to the way they do such things on the other side of the water. Delicacy was entirely lacking except in the conduct of the sheriff, who wore his working clothes, to be sure, but leaned upon the condemned man for comfort and promised him the best job of which he was capable.

The father and sister of the boy were present to see him off, a violation of good taste as established by the American arbiter elegantiarum, Lewis H. Hawes, of Sing Sing. At Sing Sing, where the decorum comes something of the Old World's sense of decency with a touch of American democracy, the guests never include any interested persons beyond the subject, himself, and certainly never would a complaining witness be permitted to attend.

But this was a neighborly, social hanging in an intensely democratic community. The people came in from miles around, lovely women with their sweet, compassionate nature as well as the menfolk whose duty it is to shield her from all offensive experiences. As a result, the president of the American League of Women, who came to see the execution, was nearly choked by a crowd of people who were going in opposite directions. No one but Cochran, who was arrested by DeKalb police and charged with reckless driving.

Negro's Skull Fractured.

Woman Knocked Down.
Knocked down as she was crossing Peachtree street at Fifteenth street early last night, Mrs. Nancy Head, of 31 Inman circle, was admitted to Grady hospital with a fractured rib and severe bruises about the limbs.

According to police reports, Mrs. Head was struck down by an automobile driven by Frank E. Beam, of 1296 Fairview road, who stated the accident was unavoidable. No case was made against Beam.

Truck Hits Post.
John R. Walker, 26, of 790 Piedmont avenue, was injured in an automobile accident when he was struck by a truck when, according to his report to police, he swerved the beer truck he was driving into the whiteway post on Pryor street at Decatur street to avoid a collision with another vehicle. He was treated at Grady hospital and dismissed.

Herman Martin, negro, of 809 Mitchell street, S. W., and Elvira Williams, negro, of 344 Wellborn street, S. W., were treated at Grady hospital yesterday morning for injuries received when the car driven by Martin collided at Fair and Ashby street with one driven by A. L. Williams, negro, of 37 Ashby street, S. W.

Following treatment at Grady hospital, Martin made four unsuccessful attempts to escape from Hospital Prison street at Decatur street, yesterday afternoon in recorder's court pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless

Dorsey Is in Kidding Mood As He Poses for Caricature

The words of greeting: "Good morning, Judge!" "So you are the guy?" "Why do you squint your eyes?" he asks. . . . I lean forward. . . . Says the judge: "A worm's-eye-view is what you want!"

Dorsey, as I take pencil in hand, jokes on. "Give me one like Bob Alston." "You know, all that profundity and stuff!"

His domain is the city court. . . . It's in existence since 1870. . . . Dorsey's father, Rufus T. . . . Dorsey of this same court. . . . The newsmen say this first of May the business of the city courts will be merged with that of the superior court.

So one can see that Dorsey's court is about to die. . . . But rumor has it hereabout that it's all fixed. . . . The governor, who is Dorsey's friend, will put him in superior court. So that is that.

"Lays Off" Deep Stuff.

And just for fun, this man is asked to give a curbstone opinion on some things. . . . "Are munitions makers friends, and what about this Hitler

Those are refreshing words and loads of fun. . . . Biographer boys have writ some lofty stuff like this: "A fearless, defender of states' rights—Dorsey!" But what gets the spring-time chuckle is his kidding mood! . . . Just do me like Bob Alston, Alston kind of light!" He then requests something in his sketch. . . . NRA IN GEORGIA FACES TEST IN U. S. COURT

Validity of Recovery Act
Attacked in Suit Filed by Columbus Firm.

ALBANY, Ga., April 23.—(P)—A suit attacking validity of the National Recovery Act in general, and the men's clothing code in particular, and described by United States Attorney T. Hoyt Davis as the "first genuine test of the recovery act in Georgia," has been filed in United States district court here.

Replying to charges of violations of Articles 2 and 4 of the men's clothing code, made by the fourth regional compliance council, Simon Schwab, trading as the Standard Tailoring Company of Columbus, manufacturers of men's clothing, filed the petition for an injunction against the council and various others.

Articles 2 and 4 have reference to minimum wages paid employees, and maximum hours of labor. A temporary restraining order in favor of the company was signed by Judge Bascom S. Deaver, with an interlocutory hearing set for 10 a. m. Saturday.

District Attorney Davis said the court action was the result of the compliance council's order that the company make restitution for alleged code violations. The company, Davis said, was instructed to make such restitution not later than May 15, but in the meantime, it filed the suit for injunction.

Highway Board Engineer to Aid In Beautifying Georgia Roads

MACON, Ga., April 23.—(P)—Plans for employment of a landscape engineer by the state highway department to help beautify Georgia highways were announced at the annual meeting of the Garden Club of Georgia here today.

J. W. Cole, of Moreland, chairman of the highway beautification committee of the club, announced that Governor Eugene Talmadge had agreed to create such an office after her committee and Mrs. T. H. McHatten, of Athens, had presented the matter to him.

The governor said in Atlanta today the appointment would not be made for a week or so. Mrs. Cole said the appointment would mean much to highway beautification in Georgia, and would aid the club greatly in its work in this direction.

Coal and Oil May Supply Source Of New, Abundant Synthetic Rubber

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE.
NEW YORK, April 23.—(P)—Rubber from coal and oil, in limitless quantities, is ready for the United States when need arises, according to a formula already developed in the du Pont laboratories, was reported to the American Chemical Society tonight by Dr. E. R. Bridgwater, of the company's rubber chemical division.

This coal and oil rubber will be the same artificial rubber now made from gas acetylene, a rubber that in some ways surpasses real rubber, and that has already made automobile tires equal in all respects to actual rubber.

Dr. Bridgwater's disclosure came during a tribute to Father Julius A. Neuland, of Notre Dame, whose acetylene discoveries led to the present artificial rubber.

"With our practically unlimited domestic reserves of coal and limestone," said Dr. Bridgwater, "for the production of the acetylene and of salt for hydrogen chloride, obviously it will be possible, if a national emergency should arise, to equip ourselves quickly to produce a sufficient quantity of chloroprene rubber to supply the nation's needs."

"Moreover acetylene can be produced from petroleum, as well as from coal, although the process is not yet fully developed on a commercial scale."

The "chloroprene" is the man-made substitute for the latex fluid of the rubber tree. Instead of growing in the ground, it springs from formulae invented by Father Neuland for "monovinyl" acetylene and "divinyl" acetylene.

For this ground work, Father Neuland was honored tonight by the leaders of 10,000 chemists gathered here, to present him the William H. Nichols medal, the highest honor of chemistry.

The Catholic father, still black-haired in his fifties, slight smiling, and diffident, was welcomed as "a soldier of science" who daily risked his life in his chemistry laboratory. The acetylenes he experimented with are explosive, almost as dangerous as dynamite.

In responding tonight, Father Neuland, in a slow, soft drawl, told the

GEORGIA REPUBLICAN HITS ADMINISTRATION

C. E. Donnelly, Chairman of State Central Committee,
Attacks Wagner Bill.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 23.—(P)—Charles E. Donnelly, who said he is chairman of the republican state central committee of Georgia, today in a statement attacked the democratic national administration and particularly the Wagner labor relations bill, now pending in congress.

Donnelly said: "It can no longer be doubted that the present trend of affairs is toward a return to the republican form of government, or chaos, and predicted if the present administration continues its 'mad career' a republican victory in 1936 is certain 'unless some chaotic party leaps into power.'"

The democratic administration's "disastrous course," Donnelly said, "is epitomized in a bill which is now before the senate; such a bill as I am sure has never been brought into the legislative halls before."

"Under a responsible administration of real American statesmen no group of politicians would have dared to bring forth such a bill. I refer to the Wagner labor relations bill."

The acreage in Lowndes, Thomas and Colquitt counties shows a substantial increase, while in Cook and Brooks counties the planting is about the same as last year. The entire middle Georgia area shows a small increase, but these melons come on after the south Georgia melon season is over and will not affect the growers in this section.

School Bus Driver

Held to Grand Jury

ROCKVILLE, Md., April 23.—(P) Percy Line, 34-year-old driver of the school bus struck by a Baltimore & Ohio flyer at a crossing here April 11 with the loss of the lives of 14 children, was held today for grand jury action.

Police Judge Donald A. De Lashmunt, released J. A. Shewbridge, engineer, and William F. Bussey, fireman of the train, saying they had done all they could to avoid the crash.

The judge in ordering Line held for the grand jury said the bus driver was clearly guilty of negligence.

"I think it is the duty of every driver to stop at a railroad crossing and look for the train," the judge said. "I say he is guilty of negligence. It is up to the grand jury to say whether he is guilty of gross negligence."

P. T. A. Defeats Proposal to Bar Salaried Persons From Presidency

ROME, Ga., April 23.—(P)—The Georgia Parent-Teacher Association congress today rejected a proposal to amend its by-laws to prohibit that "no salaried person shall be eligible for presidency of the association."

The vote was 126 to 117. The proposal came up during a business session of the congress, at which various district reports were read. A visit to the famous Berry schools near Rome was on the program for the afternoon, followed by a business session tonight with Mrs. Charles Center president, and Mrs. Frank David, fifth vice president, presiding.

Mrs. W. D. Wilkerson, chairman of the national P. T. A. magazine, discussed today work of organizing Japanese citizens of Washington state into P. T. A. groups. She said she disliked the idea of electing women as presidents and treasurers, but that the women finally won out and now serve in these offices.

She said there is no delinquency problem among P. T. A. children, but that the women finally won out and now serve in these offices.

Uniform divorce and marriage laws and uniform narcotic laws in all states were urged by Mrs. M. P. Summers, of Sioux City, Iowa, official representative of the National P. T. A. organization, who is attending the sessions here.

She advocated also the teaching of children to act to enable them to make decisions and to prevent development of inferiority complexes.

"Many highly educated people are illiterate in meeting the problems of life," she said. "The depression has shown that we have not taught people how to live when they are not sleeping or working."

Mrs. Frank Daird, of Columbus; Mrs. Harry Craemer, of Augusta, and Professor A. N. Swain, of Rome, were among speakers at a banquet last night.

Speakers on today's program included Mrs. C. H. Thorpe, of Little Rock, Arkansas, director of home service, and Willis Sutton, Atlanta superintendent of schools.

Red, yellow and green "traffic lights" are used to keep speakers at the convention within their time limits. A green light means go, a yellow light, get ready to quit talking, and a red light, stop talking.

The women run the convention according to schedule. Sightseeing trips around Rome occupy the visitors when they are not at business sessions or taking part in entertainment features.

Delegates have shown keen interest in the bronze statue of the Capitoline Wolf, a gift to the city of Rome from Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy. It stands in front of the municipal auditorium, where sessions of the convention are held.

Several years ago one of the legendary twins, Romulus and Remus, shown nursing at the mother wolf, was stolen. It was replaced by a copy of it, and it has now replaced the missing figure.

Officers will not be elected at this year's congress. Mrs. Otto Kolb, of Savannah, will lead memorial services at tomorrow's session. A number of addresses are on the program for the two concluding sessions tomorrow.

Awards Announced.
The following awards were made today, in addition to those previously announced:

Poster Awards: Junior high—Kirby Brown, of Murphy Junior High, Atlanta; honorable mention, Marjorie Coleman, of Marietta.

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 23.—(P)—The expenditures of $4,000,000 of the national work relief funds for further building at Fort Benning here has been recommended by post authorities, Captain Carl H. Jablonowsky, construction quartermaster, announced.

On his recent visit to the fort, Assistant Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring said he was optimistic over Fort Benning's chances of securing the desired appropriation. He said he, Secretary of War George H. Dern and General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, were working hard to see that Fort Benning received the amount thought necessary to carry on the work.

RIOT SQUADS CALLED

IN BIRMINGHAM STRIKE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 23.—(P)—Police riot squads were called out this morning to disperse hundreds of striking laundry workers and sympathizers who staged spectacular demonstrations at three of the largest laundries in the city, and tear gas bombs were necessary to disperse the crowds.

Workers, augmented by scores of sympathizers, moved in mass formation on one laundry where the reserves warned them off. Breaking into small groups, apparently by prearrangement, the crowd moved on another laundry.

The Beautiful Derelict

BY CAROLYN WELLS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE... Fleming Stone, famous detective, is on a New Scotia-New York steamer when a drifting yacht is sighted in a fog the day after an America's cup race. With the captain's permission, Stone goes with a lifeboat crew and discovers two dead men aboard the beautiful craft, the Mad Anthony, one, young Barry Wayne, the owner, and Elkins Van Zandt, a guest. It develops that Van Zandt went with Barry to see the race when Jane Holt's father, Stephen, would not let her go alone with Barry, but finance. Medical testimony indicates that Barry was killed soon after the start by a blow on the head and that Van Zandt died from stomach ulcers. Barry was the son of Daniel Webster Wayne and passed his summer with him and Dan's sister, Patricia Henry Wayne, on their estate at Sand Hill, Nantucket Island. United States Attorney Demarest welcomes Stone's offer to work on the mysterious case. Mrs. Vera Van Zandt frankly tells Stone she didn't love her husband. She and the Holts are the Wayne's guests. A laboratory report shows that metallic sodium, not stomach ulcers, killed Van Zandt. In the false bottom of a box in Vera's room Stone finds the name and address of a New York woman. Jane says Barry flirted with Vera to make her jealous, thinking she did not love him as much as he loved her. This angered Van Zandt. Questioned, Pat admits he might suspect Holt or even Mrs. Van Zandt. After searching Pat's rooms with Inspector Dan of the local police, Stone goes with Dan to look over his quarters.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"You are going to find the murderer of my husband," she asked in what sounded like a casual way. "I trust so. You want him found?" "Would it matter to you if I didn't?" "Think twice. There is much harm done by an untimely warning." "This isn't untimely; it is what you need to know, right now. Don't look at me as if you think I'm crazy. I know what you're thinking. You're wondering if I am the same woman you saw in hysterics a few hours ago. Well, I am the same person, but in a different mood. I have many moods." "Most women have, Mrs. Van Zandt, think yours a unique case. Now, if you must give me that warning, go ahead and do it. And then I think it would be wise for you to go back to bed; it is chilly out here." She looked at him in an impersonal way and said: "That is a stunning mandarin coat you have on. You look like—like—"

"Like a mandarin? And you look stunning, too. But I'm not here for an exchange of compliments. Run along now; I want to think." "And you haven't heard my warning?" "Hurry it up, then. What is it?" "Since you take it so casually, I think I won't tell you." "Very well; I haven't asked you to. Good-night." Stone arose. He had spoken with an air of finality which few could have failed to obey. But Vera caught at the wide sleeve of his robe and drew him down to his chair again. "Listen," she said, softly. "Are you not a fool to disregard a little light from me on this dark matter? You know nothing of the inmates of this house—I can tell you much." "That might appeal to some, Mrs. Van Zandt, but for myself, I prefer to learn my characters as they present themselves to me. However, you have presented yourself and if you care to tell me anything concerning yourself and also bearing on this tragedy, I shall be very glad to hear it. Am I right in assuming you do not propose to tell others what you have told me regarding your feelings toward your husband?" "I think it wiser not to do so. They wouldn't understand—as you do." "But I haven't said I understand." "You don't have to say it; I can read you like a book." "Very well, let me read you like a book. You are here to try to find out whom I suspect of being implicated in the murder of your husband. You want, then, to give me a hint—a warning, as you say—that will set me on a good track." "How clever of you! You haven't hit it just right, but you are warm." "Have you ever heard of Jonathan Edwards?" "I don't think so. Who is he?" "He's exceedingly defunct. But when on this planet he wrote a famous book on the affections. I wish, since you refuse to leave me, you'd give me an idea of the affections existing between members of this household. Whom do you love here?" "What an odd question. Well, of course I love the two Wayne's to distraction." "The brothers?" "Yes, don't know which I prefer, they're both so dear." "Would you marry one of them?" "Like a shot! Either, or both—successively." "And they're devoted to each other?"

"Completely. Damon and Pythias, David and Jonathan, Castor and Pollux—you can't beat Dan and Pat for brotherly devotion. They're splendid men. They brought Barry up by hand, and made a man of him. Barry would have been his father all over again had he lived. And his Uncle Pat, too. The boy had the best traits of both."

"On, on; tell me a word about the others. The Holts, now?" "Oh, Steve Holt. He is the kaleidoscope type, changes with every occasion. And Jane is a chip of the old block. She's sly, that's what Jane is, sly. Beware of her."

"Which you helped along all you could?" "Do you mean anything by that, Mr. Stone?" "Only what the words say; they are good English." "Good English may say many things—"

"We are talking drive. I take it, then, that I may expect no help from you in my quest for the murderer?" "Oh, that does not follow." "Again that warm little smile. "Yes, let me help you and it will make our way clearer, now that you know how I feel about my late husband."

"All this is leading up to the fact that you have something to tell me, is it not? Something that I ought to know and don't; something you can tell me and no one else can?" "No, not that, but I want to give you a warning."

"Think twice. There is much harm done by an untimely warning." "This isn't untimely; it is what you need to know, right now. Don't look at me as if you think I'm crazy. I know what you're thinking. You're wondering if I am the same woman you saw in hysterics a few hours ago. Well, I am the same person, but in a different mood. I have many moods."

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

SCOTCH HIGHLANDERS The highland folk of Scotland are famous because of their strange and interesting dress and customs. The Highlanders live in the high hills of northern and central Scotland. We may call the hills small mountains, if we like; but few of them rise more than three-quarters of a mile above sea level. Some are covered with grass and trees. Others are bleak and bare.

The Highlanders' kilts seem to have been the common form of dress for many centuries; but in times gone by they were not just as they are today.

The olden kilt was composed of a large blanket of woolen cloth, often cross-barred with color—in other words a "Scotch plaid." It was about six feet wide and 12 feet long, and was folded and wrapped around the body. The upper part was drawn to the left shoulder, where it was fastened with a brooch; the right shoulder and arm were left free. The garment was belted and buckled tight about the waist. The lower skirt-like part hung down to the knees.

A man had to be skillful when he put on his kilt. A common method was to lay it on the floor, arrange the folds, and then lie down and wrap up in it.

Sometimes a bag made from the skin of a goat or a badger was tied to the belt. It served as a pocket as well as a purse.

The modern kilt is a short, loose skirt reaching from the waist to the knees, and is worn with other garments.

Scotch Highlanders have been noted for the clans which grew up among them long ago. Each clan, at first, seems to have been composed of a family group. The word "clan" came from Gaelic, and means "offspring" or "children." In later times, many clans took to themselves persons who were not related by blood. A man might become a servant in the Campbell clan, for example, or he might join it as a warrior—calling himself "a Campbell" from that time onward.

An old law of Scotland laid down the rule that each clan must send to the king's court a man of rank who would answer for the good conduct of the clan. If this was not done, all members of the clan were classed as outlaws. The Macgregor clan was one of those which would not obey the law, and it had a long struggle to escape the king's soldiers. Clans still exist in the Scotch Highlands, but clan chiefs lost most of their power two centuries ago.

PARAGUAY ANDRIVE HALTED BY BOLIVIA

Evacuation of Charagua Forced; Enemy Communication Threatened.

Buenos Aires, April 23.—(AP)—A week of bitter, bloody fighting along the 120-mile Chaco front, in which both Bolivia and Paraguay lost heavily, tonight saw Paraguay's invasion of Bolivia temporarily halted.

Hurling nine regiments numbering 8,000 men into the Paraguayan center, General Enrique Penaranda, Bolivian commander, threatened the enemy's communications and forced evacuation of Charagua, important Santa Cruz province town, which Paraguay captured April 16.

So jubilant over the outcome of the Bolivian offensive was the Bolivian minister of war that he announced at La Paz: "The Chaguan triumph in my personal opinion, has the same significance as the victory of the Marne."

Paraguay, admitting Charagua had been abandoned for tactical reasons, asserted its counter-offensive launched in the central sector about Bouybe inflicted heavy losses on the Bolivian forces concentrated there.

Charagua, despite its communications facilities and strategic advantages, was abandoned to shorten the battle-line and permit concentration of effective at Bouybe to resist the Bolivian drive, the war ministry at Asuncion announced.

The central sector has been the scene of the fiercest fighting since the Bolivian offensive got under way April 17.

Penaranda's big push forced the outnumbered Paraguayans to fall back, resisting stubbornly in numerous hand-to-hand encounters. A seven-hour bayonet battle April 18 resulted in complete wiping out of the Bolivian 14th regiment, Paraguay claimed.

Fighting continued heavy until yesterday, when the Paraguayans, strengthened by reserves hurriedly launched their counter-attack, the Bolivians, their asserted objective accomplished, retiring.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG ACCEPTS 'EXTRA' ROLE

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 23.—(AP)—Clara Kimball Young, one-time star of the screen, was discovered today playing an "atmosphere" role in a picture now in production.

Miss Young, who began her film career in 1912 and rose to stardom and an annual income of $200,000, is working in a scene with 350 other extras.

In her heyday, the actress received hundreds of fan letters daily. Later she owned her own producing company and appeared with success on the stage. Misfortune, however, overtook her and she was forced to seek work as an extra.

Guy Kibbee Is Amusing In 'Big-Hearted Herbert'

"Big-Hearted Herbert," which opened yesterday for a three-day run at the Georgia, is a lively comedy with Guy Kibbee at his best in the role of a successful businessman who nurses an aversion for college degrees and family trees and has a predilection for brass cuspids and crayon portraits.

Adapted from Sophie Kerr's story, the picture is highly amusing and also carries a nice little romance. Although the spectacle of a nouveau riche who schemes servants and a big front is rare, if such people do exist, Aline MacMahon, an ingenious man-tam, can show you what to do, and she does it with a vengeance in this piece.

Kibbee takes great pride in the fact that he and his are just plain folks, snubs the family of his daughter's fiancée in a startling manner, and the brute, forces his wife to do her own chores about the home joint. But does he see things in a different light when his wife rebels and gives him a dose of his own bitter medicine by bringing the "plain folks" stuff into reality right under the nose of one of hubby's best customers.

Kibbee maintains throughout a run of rapid-fire dialogue his status of the world's champion grouch until the satisfactory denouement, when the family rub it in and solve a number of problems in the doing.

The program is enhanced by a comic operetta in which doctors, nurses and patients mix it up in a gay hospital melee and there's a cute little Toddlie Tale as well.—N. F.

'COMMON LAW' WIDOW DENIED SHARE IN ESTATE

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP)—A surrogate's ruling barred Geraldine L. Ott, former Pittsburgh (Kan.) dancer and singer, from a widow's third share in the $1,250,000 estate of the late Bertrand L. Taylor Sr., who died in Mississippi.

"Her delay in asserting her status as widow," Surrogate James A. Delehanty ruled, "is cogent evidence of her own knowledge that she did not possess it."

Taylor died in Beverly Hills, Cal., April 6, 1934. His will bequeathing her $10,000 was filed a short time later and Miss Ott, the daughter of a dentist, sued for the right to election as his widow.

Payne, of North Fairfield, Ohio, in the slaying of Adelbert Ewing, a month ago on the beach near Pascagoula. The jury in its report asked that the couple leave Mississippi.

Payne, who styles himself the "cowboy evangelist," and his wife had been held under bonds of $1,000 on technical charges in connection with the slaying.

In Georgia's FIELDS and STREAMS

Foxes cannot be exterminated intentionally, no matter how effective the control measures against him may be. He will always have some den where he will not be found. He will always, by virtue of superior intelligence, be able to outwit the hounds. He will always, by virtue of his almost diabolical cunning, be able to capture enough foolish-minded chickens to feed the pups back on that rocky hillside. We have nothing to do with exterminating him. It cannot be done.

But there are certain principles of management that should make every body happy. It involves a lot of doing and a lot of thinking. The plan is this: I hope I have a lot of fox hunters among the readers of this column, even though what I am going to say may make them see fox red.

Relief Roster in Atlanta Analyzed by Occupations

Largest Group of Work Seekers on List Were Formerly in Domestic Service.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Officials of the FERA announced here today that of 25,000 work-seekers on relief in Atlanta during May, 1934, about 11,000, or 43 per cent, had formerly found work in personal or domestic service. Manufacturing and mechanical industries accounted for the second largest group, numbering about 6,000, or 26 per cent of the total.

Nearly 3,800 work-seekers, or 15 per cent, had formerly found employment in trade, officials said. Transportation and communication industries contributed 1,700; agriculture, 800; professional service, 600, and public service 200. Only 530 persons, 2 per cent of all who wanted jobs, had had no work experience before coming on relief.

Two-thirds of all work-seekers on relief were negroes, of whom women outnumbered the men by three to two. Among the white workers, men outnumbered the women more than two to one.

Survey Made Public. These figures were obtained from a study of the usual occupations of workers before unemployment. Reduced earnings forced them to go on Atlanta relief rolls. Cornington Gills, assistant federal emergency relief administrator, made public the results of the survey which was conducted under the supervision of Howard H. Myers, assistant director of the division of research, statistics and finance.

Atlanta was one of 79 cities where surveys were made. The FERA analysts studied one-seventh of the entire case load in Atlanta and on the basis of this sample estimated the occupational and industrial distribution of all persons on the rolls who were workers under the definition that they were between the ages of 16 and 65 and were looking for work at the time of the survey. Included also was a small proportion who were privately employed but received relief to supplement earnings too small for the support of their families.

The workers were classified broadly by the type of industry from which they came, such as manufacturing, transportation, trade, etc., and by occupation within the industry, such as carpenter, clerk, engineer, etc.

Professionals represented only 1 per cent of the workers on relief in Atlanta during May. Most numerous were school teachers, of whom nearly 200 were on the rolls, including 150 negro teachers. About 50 musicians or teachers of music were receiving relief. Included in smaller numbers were actors, trained nurses, clerical draftsmen, engineers, photographers, writers and editors.

Trade was represented by 300 former retail dealers on the relief rolls, along with 750 salesmen and saleswomen, 750 deliverymen and 400 helpers in stores, warehouses, coal and lumber yards. Nearly 150 real estate, insurance and advertising agents were receiving relief, as were more than 100 newshy. Clerical workers numbered nearly 900 and included 300 clerks, 250 stenographers and typists and 100 bookkeepers and cashiers.

Of the 6,600 workers from manufacturing or mechanical industries, 2,800, or more than two-fifths, had worked in building and construction. Most of them were skilled craftsmen. They included 650 carpenters, 550 painters and paperhangers, 450 plasterers, 300 masons and 250 plumbers and steamfitters. More than 50 build-

New Orleans Teller Indicted for Murder

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 23.—(UP)—Steve Macaluso, former employee of the Federal Reserve bank here, was indicted for murder in the death of Mrs. Grace Wolfe Gonzales, Italian-haired divorcee, by the Orleans parish grand jury late today.

The young divorcee's body was placed in the luggage carrier of Macaluso's automobile and driven around the city for two days before the former bank employee told police April 8 that "there's a dead woman in the back of my car."

Macaluso claimed the woman shot herself while riding with him on Cuf Menteur road near here.

RALEIGH PWA LOAN CANCELED BY ICKES WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes today canceled a PWA loan and grant of $500,000 to Raleigh, N. C. for sewers and two sewerage treatment plants on the grounds that the city had not completed arrangements to get work started.

Transportation Workers. Chauffeurs and truck drivers, numbering 1,300, topped the list of transportation workers. There were 450 laborers normally employed on streets and railroads, nearly 100 locomotive engineers and firemen and about 50 switchmen and yardmen. The communication industries were represented by 100 telephone and telegraph operators.

Of the major group of 11,000 domestic and personal service workers on relief 94 per cent were negroes. More than half, or 6,200, had formerly been

Babe Goes Hitless in P. Grounds; Leaders Lead National

GIANTS TAKE HOME OPENER FROM BRAVES

New York Fans Pack Stands To See Babe's Team Lose, 6-5.

By Alan Gould.

NEW YORK, April 23.—(P)—Despite the signal failure of Babe Ruth to find fresh inspiration in the old home town or contribute anything striking to the game proceedings, the Boston Braves today carried the Giants through 11 hard-fought innings before yielding a 6-5 decision before a biggest crowd that has ever witnessed a National league opening in New York.

Fifty thousand fans, including 47,000 cash customers, nearly filled the Polo Grounds for the occasion. Obviously they were attracted more by the metropolitan debut of Ruth in National league uniform than by the homecoming of the Giants. They roared lustily for the Babe, hoping to see him celebrate his return to his favorite hitting grounds with old-time vigor, but the big fellow failed miserably to produce and was out of the game, all but forgotten by the time Mel Ott lashed a single to right to score George Davis with the winning run and break up a tense over-time struggle in the gathering gloom.

FIVE HOMERS. There was plenty of excitement for the record outpouring, including five home runs, but Ruth failed even to get the ball out of the infield in four trips to the plate. He grounded out twice to Bill Terry, once was tossed out on a hard smash to Mark Koenig.

PIRATES 4; REDS 3.—Pittsburgh's Pirates put on all in the sixth today and broke down the Cincinnati Reds' defense to win, 4 to 3.

Four hits, coupled with two errors by Myers, gave the Pirates their sixth-inning lead. The Reds attempted a comeback in their half of the same inning off Big Jim Weaver, but failed. The Reds missed a chance in the first when Goodman fanned with the bases loaded.

Byrd's second home run of the season, and the Reds' clearest play of the year failed to stem the Pirate tide. Pittsburgh chalked up 8 hits to Cincinnati's 7.

'Nap' To Pitch Again!

Nap Rucker, one of the greatest left-handers the game has known, will return to the pitchers' mound this week-end against a team of old-timers which will include Cy Young, Tris Speaker, Zack Wheat, Rube Marquard and others. He will pitch for the Buford team in a game at Augusta where the old timers are training. With Buford will be Ivy Wingo and Roy Carlyle.

Nap Rucker Will Pitch Against Veterans' Team

Mayor of Roswell To Perform for Buford in Game at Augusta.

By Ralph McGill.

Nap Rucker, the mayor of Roswell, Ga., and from 1906 until 1917 the greatest left-hander in the game, will return to the mound once more.

Rucker will come back in an exhibition game at Augusta where a team of old-timers are training. He will pitch for the Buford team which plays the old-timers at Augusta on Friday and Saturday. The old-timers will be represented by Cy Young, who won 511 ball games, more games than the average pitcher participates in; Bob Veach, of the old Tigers; Tris Speaker, one of the greater outfielders; Zack Wheat, Rube Bressler, Rube Marquard and a number of others whose names are a part of baseball's history.

With Rucker will be the regular Buford team plus two others who are old-timers but not of the Rucker vintage. They are Ivy Wingo, who for years was a catcher for Cincinnati, and Roy Carlyle, a Cracker star of past years.

THAT ARM. "I don't know about that arm," said the Mayor of Roswell last night as he struggled into a stiff collar for the weekly trip to the movies with the family. "I guess I am foolish to do it but I would like to see the old boys and maybe I won't throw the arm off."

The Old-Timers are to train at Augusta for a few days before coming to New England, where they will play a series of exhibitions guaranteed to bring them in a goodly sum of dollars. Rucker is doing it all for fun. Rucker was let go by the Atlanta team in 1906 despite the fact he won the only two games he pitched. Augusta signed him and from the time he went to Brooklyn, until the close of the 1916 season he was one of the great left-handers. The late John McGraw always claimed Nap Rucker to be the greatest left-hander in baseball and there was ample evidence to support the claim.

THE LINEUP. The probable lineup of the veteran team is: Catchers, Jimmy Archer, Sam Agnew, Jess Orndorff; pitchers, Cy Young, Rube Marquard, Hap Collins, Paul Zanker; first base, Rube Bressler; second base, Eddie Miller; short stop, Larry Kopf; third base, Jimmie Collins; outfielders, Bobby Veach, Zack Wheat, Dick Loftus, Pat Duncan and Bob Messel.

Sherry Smith, formerly with Brooklyn and Cleveland, may join forces with Rucker, Wingo and Carlyle in the Buford lineup.

Emory Net Teams Play This Afternoon

Emory's varsity and freshman tennis teams see action this afternoon at the Emory "I" courts. The varsity squad encounters Chattanooga and the freshmen meet Boys' High.

The varsity defeated Chattanooga last year in the first match here. Nick Polites, coach of the Emory team, has been shoved into the No. 2 position on the squad as the result of a defeat by Bob Ward, who is now playing No. 1. The rest of the squad is composed of Carlton Collar, Frank Morrison, Chris Conyers, Sonny Harbin, Milton Campbell and Manuel Pelaez.

The Emory team has won two matches and lost two to date. The Emory freshmen lost to Tech High last week in their opening match. This will be the opening match of the season for the Purples.

Boston Pounces on Four New York Hurlers in Home Opener.

BOSTON, April 23.—(P)—The league-leading Boston Red Sox won their sixth game out of seven starts today as they turned the official opening of the American league season here into a triumphant homecoming by defeating the New York Yankees, 7 to 4.

A crowd of 20,500, including Governor James M. Curley, of Massachusetts, saw the Red Sox pounce on four Yankee hurlers for ten timely hits while Fred Ostermiller and Henry Johnson kept the New York bats well in check with nine safe blows, one of which was a home run by Frank Crosetti.

BROWN TO MEET DAVIS TONIGHT

AT BALL PARK

Nagurski Unable To Fill Engagement Due To Injuries.

Orville Brown was breathing easier last night, but not perceptibly so, as he learned that Karl Davis, the former Ohio State University football star, would be his opponent instead of Henry Weber's opening program of the outdoor season tonight at Ponce de Leon park.

Nagurski was hurt in a match this week and will not be able to go on. Matchmaker Weber learned yesterday. Shifting the card around, he decided upon Davis as an opponent for Brown and signed Chief Chawacki, the villainous Redskin, as an opponent for Sol Slagel, the Jewish contortionist, in the semi-main event.

Marshall Blackstock, the Atlanta boy who has made good in other states, returns to meet Dan O'Connor, a newcomer, in the opener.

Brown, the Missouri Mule, was facing his match with Nagurski, with something akin to trepidation. Brown is as great favorite here and the prowess of Nagurski might have robbed him of some of his prestige.

On the other hand, Brown is capable of stepping along in the fastest of company. Davis is a real opponent, too. He deserves a spot on a main go. The 90-minute, best-two-out-of-three-falls match is certain to pack plenty of fire.

The tricky Chawacki will be forced to reach deep into his bag of stunts to outlast Slagel, who has a reputation for being able to escape any hold applied to him.

On the other hand, he has a reputation for applying holds that will force Chawacki to the limit of his chicanery to evade.

Acetate Prevents Fire When Plane Crashes

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP)—Acetate, which took the fire menace out of movie films and made the latest brand of silk stockings will end the danger of airplane funeral pyres.

Discovery of a new "dope" to coat airplane fabric and make it fire resistant was announced to the American Chemical Society today by Dr. Gordon M. Kline, of the United States Bureau of Statistics.

Major General Marie Gustave Gamelin, French army chief of staff, meanwhile inspected troops at Nice and, after passing them in review, commented:

"The morale of the army is magnificent."

Most of the youngsters reporting today attended special masses at churches throughout France before leaving for barracks.

After medical inspections, they will be issued khaki or horizon blue uniforms, doffing the "civies" they wear to camp.

Several months of training will follow, after which detachments of the conscripts will be moved up to the eastern front fortifications to replace 60,000 trained men whose terms, originally scheduled to end April 13, were extended so as to keep the total number of men under arms up to the minimum considered essential for safety.

It was pointed out that thousands of the youngsters are strangers to discipline since they have been drilled in France's several semi-military political organizations.

Others, however, are university graduates who will get their first taste of military life, while still others have been working for years.

The movement of the 120,000 conscripts to their camps will require two days.

NEXT MOVE OF HITLER
KNOWN ONLY TO HIMSELF
BERLIN, April 23.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's next move on the chess board of European diplomacy tonight was known only to himself.

A spokesman at the foreign office—the same spokesman who predicted Hitler's brief last week sternly rejecting League of Nations condemnation of Germany's rearmament—said "an additional reply" was likely.

This further statement, he said, believes, would "pick the Geneva resolution to pieces in detail and... restate our position."

This official, however, admitted he based his belief merely on probabilities, asserting no one in Berlin knew what Dr. Fuehrer was working out at his mountain home at Haus Wamboldt.

Spokesmen for the various ministries agreed on this: Hitler probably will follow his usual tactics of making some surprise move.

BONUS 'COMPROMISE' IS OPPOSED BY V. F. W.
Any compromise in settlement of the soldiers' bonus will be "undesirable and unsatisfactory" to members of the Marcus W. Beck Post No. 3,027, Veterans of Foreign Wars, a resolution passed by that body last night stated.

The veterans voted to call on Georgia senators and congressmen to urge immediate settlement of the adjusted service certificates through passage of the National House Bill No. 1.

The committee said Dr. Tobias would render aid with certain projects now being promoted by the organization.

He is a native of Augusta, Ga., and is a graduate of Paine College and of Drew Theological Seminary.

INTERARIAL GROUP ENGAGES DR. TOBIAS
The Commission on Interracial Cooperation announced here yesterday that Dr. Channing H. Tobias, senior secretary for colored work of the National Y. M. C. A. Council, had been engaged for part-time work.

The commission said Dr. Tobias would render aid with certain projects now being promoted by the organization.

He is a native of Augusta, Ga., and is a graduate of Paine College and of Drew Theological Seminary.

DENNIS, FRENCH LEAD DOUBLES
C. W. Dennis and George B. French, doubles tournament winners of 1934, marched to the front with the highest doubles total that has been bowled in the entire city tournament so far, when they turned in a total of 704 for their three games in Class B, which is more than has been recorded in Class A, Tuesday.

John Hartken, who turned in the big 177 game while bowling with the Model Laundry team Monday, proved that his bowling of Monday was no "flash in the pan" when he took the lead in the Class B singles from Alan Leibler with a 373 score, Leibler having been the former leader with 368.

Hartken bowled scores of 125, 109-139 to take the lead in the B singles. Incidentally, Hartken's 373 of last night and his three-game total of 398 for Monday give him a total of 796 toward his goal, which looks like easy sailing unless he has a serious mishap which is not likely.

Later in the evening, L. N. Tappan topped Hartken's score by three pins with his 376.

In the team events, Power Club bowled 1,563 in Class C; Sigma Chi had 1,406 in Class E; WGST had 1,328 in Class A; Upsilon had 1,285 in Class D; Tappan-Tyler 620; Harmon-Gladwin 653; Green and Adams 621.

In the singles C. A. Paine had 955; J. Strochi 327; Stokes 344; Norton 264; F. E. Reeves 346, which looks pretty good for Class D; Redding 266; Taylor 219; J. Bick 321; Tappan 376 to lead Class A; Tyler 325.

which was absorbed by trade buying covering and some buying through prices worked gradually lower after the first half-hour.

The weakness of grain evidently caught in some selling for the west-

continued and there was some selling from New Orleans and south-

sources. But after showing net sales of 8 to 13 points the market turned up on increased trade buying liquidation and switching into months was one of the chief buying features of the day, but there considerable buying of May, net sales of July toward the close. TARZAN AND THE FIRE GODS No. 51

Tarzan knew the baboons would not precipitate an unprovoked attack; but they would set upon him ferociously if they mistook some trivial act as a threat against the safety of the tribe. For his own purposes, however, he wanted these lesser ape-people for his friends.

"Tarzan seeks for an evil Termanian," he said. "This white man has many Comangani with him. They are bad men. They kill. Tarzan has come to drive them from the country. Do you know where they are camped?"

For answer, Hobash, the king, only growled and placed the back of his head against the ground in challenge. Some of the others followed his example. Then Hobash drew himself erect and grimaced fiercely, hoping to frighten his antagonist by the savagery of his mien.

But Tarzan only shrugged and marched slowly toward the challenging bulls that blocked his path. One, stiff-legged and arrogant, moved grudgingly aside. But another stood his ground. Here, the ape-man knew, would come the test that would decide his fate!

BY ALICE BROOKS

Culbertson on Contract

Humorous But Sound.

Whenever the bidding has proceeded—once spades—two spades—three spades—four spades, by a partner—ship, gales of laughter arise from opponents or kibitzers. I must confess I do not understand the reason for this laughter. Such bidding is very normal and commonplace among expert players using the stream-lined 1935 system and is not as humorous and unbecoming as some people think.

On the deal below, a double dummy inspection of all four hands shows a game in spades can be made by North and South. However, with correct bidding North and South will stop at three-odd which is the correct final contract, as it takes three finesses to make four-odd.

South, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South West North East
1♠ Pass 2♠(1) Pass (2)
3♠(3) Pass Pass (4) Pass

1—It is proper to raise partner's bid with only 1-2 honor-trick, if the hand contains adequate trump support and a doubtless. This is a "hatched" raise, made only when the next opponent has passed.

2—There is the temptation to double for a takeout with this hand because of support for the other three suits. Such a double, with so few honor-tricks in the hand, and when vulnerable, would be foolhardy.

3—South sees hope of game if his partner's raise was a good one. South is not strong enough to jump to game himself and makes the only possible game-involving bid—open to him.

4—North has told his full story on the first round. If South cannot jump to four himself, there cannot be a good play for game.

The Play.

If West opens a low heart four-odd and is defeated provided that South, reasoning that West has led from the queen, ducks. With any other opening declarer will play West for the heart ace and East for the spade and club kings. Since all three suits are in favorable positions, a seven-to-one shot, four can be made, but to reach that contract would be losing the game.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

South, dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

Speed Urged on Plan For New Air Defense

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP)—The house was advised formally today by its military committee to speed enactment of legislation to set up a chain of strategic army air bases because of the danger of no longer serve as barriers to foreign attacks.

Through Representative Rogers, democrat, New Hampshire, the committee submitted its report on a measure by Representative Wilcox, democrat, Florida, to authorize construction of air bases to protect not only the continental United States but Alaska and other possessions as well.

Such a step, the committee emphasized, is to be considered as purely defensive. The cost of proposed new bases and of bringing existing bases up to the strength of new ones is estimated at about $110,000,000.

In locating stations, the War Department would be required to consider the Atlantic, Pacific, Indian, and Caribbean areas, Pacific northwest, Alaska and the Rocky mountain region.

"The committee is convinced," the report said, "that the maintenance of at least one station in each of the areas is necessary."

"In the passage of this bill," the committee declared, "we will show the world that we are prepared to defend ourselves against air attack and thus discourage any nation from rendering it practically certain there will be no such attack."

Ingalls Will Hop For Record Today

LOS ANGELES, April 23.—(AP)—Weather permitting, Laura Ingalls will take off tomorrow morning for New York on her second attempt to smash Amelia Earhart's transcontinental flying record for women of 17 hours and 56 minutes 50 seconds.

Miss Ingalls' $40,000 low-wing monoplane has undergone a thorough overhauling since its return from Alamosa, Colo., where she was forced down by dust storms last Tuesday on her first attempt.

"There was enough dust in that motor to fill the cockpit," she said after watching mechanics put the finishing touches on the big plane. "If I don't run into any dust storms I hope to make it this time."

although conditions will favor flying as soon as liquidating is over.

FEINER & BEANE—Liquidation will probably have to run its course before there will be any appreciable drop in wheat.

DOBBE & CO.—We think the wheat market will meet good support on any spot.

GRAIN FUTURES.

COURT & CO.—With a liquidating process under way we would be inclined to look from the sidelines for the time being.

FEINER & BEANE—Sentiment appears to be mixed and we look for the market to do better in the near future.

DOBBE & CO.—We saw nothing in Tuesday's developments to cause a change in previously formulated opinion of market.

COTTON FUTURES.

COURT & CO.—We expect so decided move in either direction pending the outcome of the hearing before the president's cabinet committee on textiles which began April 23.

FEINER & CO.—A trading position is still advised.

DOBBE & CO.—The strike situation in Toledo is viewed with apprehension.
